CHECKMATE JEROME

AT BAY IN DEFENCE OF HER BOY

Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw, Harry's white-haired and gentle mother, is moved to bitter denunciation of Jerome in defence of Harry. She likens Harry's "Nemesis" to a "HUMAN HYENA."

SUMMONS MISS SEARS

JUDGES OF GOVERNOR DISAGREE

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 25.—Members of the Court of Appeals today came to an open break on a vitally important question hearing not only upon the final determination of the impeachment proceedings against Governor Sulzer, but upon a sensational sequel, in which it is alleged that the Democratic leaders, directed by Patrick E. McCabe, are preparing to push a criminal indictment in this county against Sulzer, the moment the impeachment proceeding is ended.

The Grand Jury in the county assembles October 6, and it became known today that plans have already been made for evidence looking to the indictment of the Governor at that session.

Judge Hiscock opened the fight that split the Court of Appeals in two factions when he came into a violent clash with the ruling of Chief Judge Cullen, in which the latter held that the testimony of Jacob H. Schiff and other witnesses might be admitted to show that Sulzer had not committed larceny by converting to his personal purposes campaign contributions because the witnesses had not limited the Governor in the matter of expending the funds.

Judge Hiscock Dissents.

"I have grave doubt, as have some other of the judges, as to the admissibility of that evidence," said Judge Hiscock, interrupting a discussion by counsel.

The incident told the sensational story of a split—a split wide and deep and of such importance as to hold the instant attention of all lawyers and to give promise of a serious division in the court when it comes to decide the main issue, "Is William Sulzer guilty or not guilty?"

Of more spectacular interest was the clash of John R. Stanchfield and D. Cady Herrick over the demand of Mr. Stanchfield that the Governor's counsel procure Louis A. Sarecky, former confidential secretary to the Governor and keeper of his campaign wampum, and Fred L. Colwell, the broker with whom Governor Sulzer is alleged to have engaged a personally conducted expedition into the wilds of Wall street. Counsel for the Governor promised to produce both of these men.

To Admit All Evidence.

A hurry call was sent out to bring Schiff back to the stand, where he will be cross-examined by Stanchfield.

By a vote of fifty-five ayes and no nays the court sustained the ruling of the Chief Judge Cullen, that the board of managers could present additional testimony to that upon which the articles of impeachment against Sulzer was based along the line of showing the commission of larceny and perjury.

This decision throws down the bars to the prosecution to bring in a flood of new evidence against the Governor.

Paying Teller Godwin of the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company of New York identified deposit slips for $4,600, bearing Mr. Sulzer's signature.

Abram I. Elkus, a New York lawyer identified a cancelled voucher for $500 he had contributed to Mr. Sulzer's campaign.

NEW HAVEN DIRECTORS GUILTY

The Boston AMERICAN'S exclusive forecast of the Interstate Commerce Commission's report on the most recent New Haven disaster, to be printed Tuesday, is strikingly confirmed by the official report published today.

The AMERICAN said the officers and directors would be officially condemned as primarily and immediately responsible for the Wallingford wreck on September 2, in which twenty-one were killed and thirty-five injured.

The report scathingly grills, operating officials, officers and directors for permission of regulations that were permitted to become "dead letters," and for not seeing personally that operating conditions were what they had directed them to be.

"Man failure in this case," says Commissioner McChord, who prepared the report after an exhaustive personal investigation," began high up in official authority."

Rap "Antiquated Signals."

In use at the time of the disaster the report points out, were "antiquated signals condemned by the locomotive engineers as well as by the public service commission of Connecticut," and old wooden cars unsuited by construction for such traffic as they were expected to accommodate.

These were held to be contributory reasons for the excessive number of casualties. Commissioner McChord indicates the results of a similar recent accident at Tyrone, Pa., in which the equipment was all steel, and in which none of the passengers was killed, as an object lesson in favor of the use of modern equipment.

The Commission demands of the New Haven road the immediate adoption of "an adequate system of superintendence and supervision, which will give those in authority definite and positive information as to whether or not the safety requirements and rules of this railroad are observed."

Striking Accusations.

Among the more striking points made by the commission's report were the following:

"Man failure in this case began high up in official authority and . . . reached down to those in positions lower in official rank, but still weighted with great responsibility."

"Antiquated signals, condemned by the locomotive engineers, as well as by the Public Service Commission of the State of Connecticut, were in use at the time of the New Haven disaster."

"There was a deplorable lack of supervision on the part of operating officers; on this account the conditions which led up to this accident were possible."

"Defects of management, neglect of obvious precautions for safety, ineffective rules, and these not systematically enforced; high speed trains closely following one another without adequate safeguards; overdriving of duty . . . as well as a general weakness of discipline, have been denounced and condemned." In a report by this commission on previous accidents on this railroad.

"It is astounding that this state of affairs is allowed to continue to exist."

"Experience has shown that reliance of the public upon the directors was not justified as to either finance or safety."

The directors, having passed resolutions following the Bridgeport and Westport wrecks that President Mellen

How Recipients of New Haven Cash Explain

The following explanations made by men who were paid for "services" by the New Haven Railroad are published by the AMERICAN today.

CHARLES H. INNES, attorney:

Whatever was paid to me in the regular line of business for purely legal services.

WILLIAM A. MURPHY, State House reporter for the Boston Globe:

For the last seven years I have made  abstracts of bills referring to corporations. Five of these seven years I have sold one of these copies to the New Haven road. That explains the entry made to me on the expense report of the New Haven.

MICHAEL E. HENNESSY, Political Editor of the Boston Globe:

Says money paid him by the corporation was solely for publicity work outside his regular duties.

GEORGE H. SARGENT of the political staff of the Boston Transcript:

Also declares that payments to him were solely for publicity matters outside his regular duties.

JOHN J. BUCHANAN

States that the fees paid him were for the regular placing of advertising.

Eight Hurt; Truck Runs Away on Hill

Chauffeur Drives It Into Bank, Spilling Twenty Passengers.

PITTSFIELD, Sept. 25.—Eight persons were injured, some severely, when a motor truck, carrying a party of tenants to the Great Barrington Fair, ran away while descending a steep grade in Mount Mountain. To avert a worse disaster the chauffeur, Frank Nayior, finding the brakes useless, drove the truck into a bank, throwing out all his passengers. Passing motorists gave the injured first aid.

James Cornell, Mrs. Edward Chonfelt, Miss Anna Chonfelt, Mrs. Fred Lasotte, Miss Anna Lasotte, and Williams Sparks, John Dunn of Chester and Clyde Dinsmore of Middlefield are in Emergency Hospital, Great Barrington, cut and bruised.

THAW LAWYERS MOVE TO SHUT OFF STATE CASH

CONCORD, N. H., Sept. 25.—The new plan of the Thaw lawyers to block Jerome became known to the AMERICAN today. It is a move to stop Jerome spending any money for New York State because there is no New York statute authorizing the expenditure of State funds to recapture an escaped lunatic.

TO PROTEST TO NEW YORK COMPTROLLER.

Action is to be taken in New York before the State comptroller restrained from honoring any Jerome expenses in the Thaw case.

With this plan comes an announcement that there may be private persons guaranteeing any money Jerome may spend.

Thaw's attorneys say they have persons under watch in the connection.

Samson Selig of Hooper, Grossman & Cochran, Thaw's New York attorneys in the New Hampshire crisis, arrived here today and went into immediate conference with Harry and those of his New Hampshire counsel who are in Concord.

Tax Payer to Protest.

The New York attorneys have been searching the New York statutes for any law which authorizes money to be spent to recapture an escaped lunatic. Jerome has had special trains, automobiles guards and other heavy expenses.

The attorneys decided that, if any tax payer should enter legal protests against the scattering of public funds to catch Thaw the comptroller could be compelled to refuse payment of such bills.

It is planned to have such a protest made to the comptroller.

It is alleged that Jerome's expenses

Eleonora Sears Is Ordered to Court

Must Tell Why Vanderbilt Auto Hasn't Bay State Number.

Miss Eleonora Sears must appear in the suburban District Court, Saturday, and tell why she is driving Harold Vanderbilt's high-powered auto all over the State without having it registered in Massachusetts.

When Vanderbilt went abroad this Summer, Miss Sears abandoned her own car, and adopted Vanderbilt's. She wanted the car, flickered with its "insards," and drove the French chauffeur, employed by Vanderbilt, to such despair that he threw up his job.

Since then she has been driving the car. The machine is registered in New York and still carries the New York license number. Tether Motorcycle Officer Edward F. Goldberg entered formal complaint against her.

Jane Addams Hurt in Auto Accident

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 25. Jane Addams, settlement worker and founder of Hull House in Chicago, is somewhat annoyed after having been in an automobile accident. The car crashed into a high bank. Miss Addams and her companions were shaken up.

Barry Renews War on Chairman Riley

Candidate for Lieutenant-Governor May Manage Own Campaign.

Edward P. Barry, the Democratic nominee for Lieutenant-Governor, today renewed his fight on Chairman Thomas P. Riley of the Democratic State Committee, with a statement that if Riley continued as official head of the organization, he would organize an independent campaign committee in his own behalf.

"I will have nothing whatever to do with Mr. Riley," said Mr. Barry today. Mr. Barry and Lieutenant-Governor Walsh will confer next Saturday on Mr. Riley.

"I want Mr. Walsh to be elected," said Mr. Barry today, "and if Mr. Walsh feels that Mr. Riley's removal would hurt his chances in any way, then I will withdraw my personal objections. I will do everything in my power to help elect Mr. Walsh and the rest of the State ticket, but I will not allow Mr. Riley to manage my campaign."

China Now Makes Own Cotton Clothes

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—A decrease of $24,304,000 in the value of American cotton goods sold in China in the fiscal year ended June 30, 1913, compared with the goods sold in 1906, which led the United States to undertake an investigation, has resulted in the discovery that the Chinese are making so much of their own clothes that the nation will have to find some substitute for cotton to stimulate new trade. Cotton mills in Japan used $25,000,000 worth of American cotton last year.

Schooner Founders With All Sails Set

Nellie F. Sawyer Goes Down in Pollock Rip Slue.

CHATHAM, Sept. 25.—The three-masted schooner Nellie F. Sawyer, bound from New York to Calais, Maine, struck bottom early today, in Pollock Rip Slue, about three-quarters of a mile from the lightship, and sank before the crew had time to lower her sails. The crew escaped in boats.

The schooner was in charge of Captain N. S. Mitchell. It was loaded with coal for Calais, Maine. About 2 a. m. today she grounded in Pollock Rip Slue during a heavy swell.

She took water at once and the crew rowed to the lightship.

Captain Joseph Kelley of Monomoy Life Saving Station went to their assistance and brought the men ashore.

The schooner lies on sandy bottom with her bowsprit out of water. As the channel at this point is very narrow and is one of the busiest ocean highways on this part of the coast, it is expected that the schooner will be blown up by a revenue cutter. The Nellie F. Sawyer was built at Brunswick in 1873 and was 270 tons' net burden.

Plot on Life of Japanese Minister

TOKIO, Sept. 25.—A plot to assassinate the Japanese Minister of Foreign Affairs, Baron Nobuaki Makino, and dynamite the Foreign office, has been unearthed by the police. A miner, who had stolen explosives for this purpose, has been arrested.

Mansfield Must Quit Postoffice

Result of Investigation of U. S. Inspectors in Boston.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Seven of the eight Democratic representatives from Massachusetts conferred with Postmaster-General Burleson today on the result of the investigation of the Boston office recently conducted by five postoffice inspectors.

The conferences developed no definite action, but disclosed that Postmaster Mansfield will soon be called upon to resign. Mansfield will not be relieved from duty until after the State election, but his departure from the Boston postoffice is only a matter of a few weeks.

In many respects the conduct of the Boston office is criticised by the inspectors and the report furnishes sufficient evidence to call for Mansfield's resignation, even though there was no political demand for his dismissal.

Price of Potatoes Soars in Boston

During the past forty-eight hours the wholesale and retail price of potatoes has advanced in Boston 15 cents a bushel and now sell for $1.65 per two bushel bag.

The rapidly rising price of potatoes in the Boston market is traced to the trouble of getting freight trains through on the Bangor & Aroostook Railway, according to produce dealers.

The strike difficulties of the Bangor & Aroostook, as told exclusively in the Sunday AMERICAN, make it extremely difficult for shippers to get their potatoes carried by the police. A miner, who had stolen explosives for this purpose, has been arrested.

Report Progress to "L" Carmen

Members of the Boston Street Carmen's Union held two meetings at their headquarters, 724 Washington street, today, and will meet again at 1 p. m. tomorrow.

Reports of progress were made concerning the Elevated arbitration proceedings. Daily reports are also being made to the union by the thirty-six delegates who have just returned from the international convention at Salt Lake City.

HARRY THAW CALLS INDICTMENT "FAKE"

HIS LAWYERS AND FELKER TO DEMAND SWORN EVIDENCE

are tremendous. "Outrageous," one of the Thaw attorneys expresses it.

Attention was called to the fact that District Attorney Conger of Dutchess County gave assurance that his county would be put to no expense in the Thaw case, although the grand jurors balked at least once on indicting Thaw on account of the expense and for other reasons.

The point now made by Thaw's lawyers is this—if New York State can not legally spend money to get Thaw back, and if Dutchess County is prohibited immunity from expense—then who is to foot Jerome's bills?

Jerome came on as deputy attorney general for New York State, with all the authority of such high office.

But the intimation that a private person or persons will pay the expense of dragging Thaw back to Matteawan puts a very different color on the case, in the minds of Thaw's counsel.

There were shuts this noon that some sensational developments would be uncovered on the New York end before Messrs. House, Grossman and Vorhaus are through with their part.

Call Indictment a Fake.

Meanwhile the statement by Jerome at the extradition hearing that Harry was indicted at Poughkeepsie, is being subjected to severest scrutiny.

Thaw's lawyers frankly jeer at it, saying Jerome was "bluffing."

Governor Felker is investigating Jerome's statement at both ends—here and at Poughkeepsie. An attorney at the latter place has been detailed to investigate the indictment question.

In order to get the exact wording which Jerome used, in saying Thaw had been secretly indicted, the torchbearer will examine the official stenographer's report of the hearing.

The reporters took Jerome's brilliant flow of language down mostly in longhand. Thaw's lawyers have raised the two questions regarding it.

Did He Merely Quibble?

One is, whether Jerome actually said Thaw had been indicted, or whether he said an indictment had been found, not naming Thaw specifically in this connection? The stenographer's report will disclose this. The Thaw lawyers hold that, if Jerome intimated Thaw's indictment but did mean actually to say so, then he merely quibbled.

Governor Felker also took steps today to expand a jury of reporters on Thaw.

The Governor has taken the names of all the newspapermen, Boston, New York and Canadian, who have been following Thaw since he struck the Canadian line in his northward dash for freedom.

The reporters are hourly expecting to be called before the Governor, to give their opinion as to Thaw's sanity, based on their close observation of him.

Next to Thaw's counsel and keepers, the reporters have been best observers of the man for the past month. Several of the newspapermen have had experience in insanity cases and are qualified to give a very fair opinion, from a layman's standpoint of Thaw's mental responsibility.

Thaw reporters at present "covering" the Thaw case in Concord include the following:

Charles F. Bowen, Boston AMERICAN and International News Service.
John W. Carberry, Boston Globe.
Joseph A. Hurley, Boston Post.
Ernest L. Waitt, Boston Journal.
Thomas R. Dibble, New York Journal.
John K. Winkler, New York American.
Charles Ulrich, New York Herald.
P. F. Hanley, New York Press.
Edward Breker, New York Morning World.
Lindsey Denison, New York evening World.

P. B. Ebey, Associated Press.

Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw had breakfast sent to her room today, but planned to come down to the dining room for dinner and supper. Harry eats there and the mother likes to be with him at meals, as well as at all other times.

Harry was a bit late to breakfast. He hurried back to his room after that and plunged into writing and dictating.

Mrs. Thaw found her face rather sun and wind-burned from the run auto ride with Harry the day before and remained in her room until dinner time. Harry visited her in the morning.

Women Watch Thaw Play.

After seeing his mother, Harry strolled down into the hotel parlor, sat up the piano and played for a half hour. Three or four women guests at the hotel, who had been eager to see him, were delighted to come upon him at the piano.

Harry started in with "The Battle Above the Clouds," a spirited composition. Then he played a classical selection brilliantly. After that his mind seemed to take a ragtime turn, and he played in succession "Sweetest Hour of Childhood," "Just You Alone," and "Dreams of You."

Harry goes through setting-up exercises in his room night and morning to keep himself in good physical trim.

"Bluff, pure and simple," is the way one of Thaw's lawyers characterized the Jerome claim of a secret Thaw indictment.

A surprising intimation today is also that "the man higher up" referred to by Jerome is one of the officials of Matteawan.

That Roger Thompson, the chauffeur in Thaw's flight through New York States into the Dominion, has no intention of confessing, as Jerome asserted he would, is also stated.

In a fiery denunciation of Thaw's homesty, one of the counsel for the Matteawan fugitive declared:

Charge Jerome "Bluffed."

"If you will notice, Jerome made the statement that the indictment against Thaw had been signed. Of course it has been signed. We, ourselves, have never gone before a Grand Jury without having the indictments which he hopes to get prepared and signed. But the fact that they are signed we could does not give them value until the Grand Jury has voted to indict. In this case the Grand Jury, which is composed of the same men, has not so voted, and the action has been continued.

"Jerome's statement that the Governor had no discretion in matters of requisition, and must sign, was another attempt at bluff. Under the law the Governor has the broadest power in investigating the charges before the old tradition is asked, but once he has assured himself that the papers are right, he has no discretion in the matter and must sign.

"If the law was otherwise the process of requisition and extradition would be a farce, and a man could be sent out of a state on any charge that might be trumped up in order to secure his possession in another commonwealth."

Claim Indictment Refused.

The Thaw lawyers claim today to have learned in three ways, by telegram, telephone and messenger from Poughkeepsie, N. Y., that the jury refused, by a vote of twenty-one to two, to return an indictment for conspiracy against Thaw.

This information is said to have come from one of the jurors too late to be put before Governor Felker at the hearing, but now made known to him.

It is believed that Governor Felker will investigate thoroughly before accepting Jerome's word in the matter, especially now that it has been so flatly contradicted.

Evelyn's Love Story

CHAPTER XXVIII.

"And gathered every vice on Christian ground." —ALEXANDER POPE.

About this time Anthony Comstock, the arch-crusader against vice, came publicly into the Thaw case.

While Harry was waiting in Coroner Dooley's office for the inquest to begin he went to the telephone and called a number. Then he asked for "A. C."

"A. C." was not there, but Harry left a message for "A. C." to see him. The episode, as far as could information of value, it did not take the reporters long to herald a guess that "A. C." meant Anthony Comstock. Then they found that Comstock had asked him if he had any interest in Harry Thaw's affairs.

The American published the following signed statement by Mr. Comstock:

BY ANTHONY COMSTOCK.

I am ready to go before the Grand Jury at any moment, and in that case I shall give them every scrap of evidence in my possession bearing on this case and on the odious network of vice in this city, which, in its horror, excels the worst excesses of Rome in the sixth century.

I am convinced that the act of that unfortunate, young man, now in the Tombs, was inspired not only by resentment against the wrongs which he believed his wife had suffered at the hands of White, but also by a desire to rid the world of a man whom he believed unfit to live.

Three other men—all three being White's chosen friends—were named in the statement made to me by Thaw on his first visit to me eighteen months ago. Every scrap of information I got in this case came in the first instance from Mr. Thaw.

He told me that White was engaged in the business of corrupting and bringing vicious girls. He named the three men as associates of White. He told me that his sole purpose in asking my aid was to expose Stanford White and his associates and to save other girls from moral destruction.

Mr. Thaw called on me again and again and each time had more data. It is a remarkable fact, however, that he never once referred to his wife in any of our interviews, and indeed, the first intimation I had of her connection with the case was when the newspapers told me the story of the murder.

Through many months we were working on the evidence supplied by Mr. Thaw. I have already said that we failed to get the legal "grand jurors" against Mr. White and his friends. In some ways, I think, he got wind of our purpose. We tried to have a studio in Madison Square Garden and, although there were several vacant places, we failed to get one. And this was just where we failed in our legal plans. Their homes watch White's studio our work was hopeless.

"Influence Against Us."

Our next work was to seek out the girls named by Mr. Thaw, and here again the same mysterious influence was against us, for all the girls had mysteriously left town. Their homes were closed. Their relatives were found. But the girls themselves had been spirited away. More than that, their parents in nearly all cases, flatly refused to aid us in meeting them, pleading that they desired to avoid the notoriety and shame attaching to such cases.

And I never, at any time, noticed the slightest sign or a drink or drug upon Mr. Thaw. His manner was that of a quiet, earnest, honest gentleman, intent on a good purpose.

Now, as to whether his failure to bring about the arrest and conviction of Stanford White and the passage of the wrong done to his wife, of which I know only now, opened upon his mind so that he was driven to a wild revenge, I decline to say.

That this vice exists and is spreading to a degree absolutely appalling among the men of the wealthy and upper middle classes is true, as I am sorry by the official records in my possession.

In some of these cases I have been able to secure convictions in the face of all the wealth, the social influence and other power arrayed against me. But in the majority of cases, the principal witness has been missing at the psychological moment.

I say again, that these hideous vices are destroying society.

The influence of an age of luxury, of indulgence, born of vast wealth, may account for this career. We have reached a condition compared with which Sodom and Gomorrah or ancient Rome were almost normal. Heaven alone knows where it will end.

I have no hope that Harry Thaw's act in slaying Stanford White will have a purifying effect. Moral regeneration was never yet born of crime.

New York Startled.

These broad statements by Anthony Comstock naturally startled New York. They threw an interesting light on the enmity Thaw held toward White. They also caused a great amount of reorientation.

People said that, if Anthony Comstock was right and young girls were being ruined in shoals, then the Gerry Society should be more active.

The Gerry Society officials promptly came out with a statement that it was doing all it possibly could and that many of these "vice yarns" were exaggerated.

MANICURE WINS LOVE TOURNEY FOR MESSENGER

Miss Bertha Cloud, a manicure of Louisville, Ky., has won the affections of Frank A. Messenger, a wealthy Boston wool importer, after a year of aggressive and uncompleted, against Miss Sadie McDonald, his former stenographer, who is suing him for $75,000 for alleged breach of promise.

Mr. Messenger and Miss Cloud have taken out a marriage license in Louisville, and according to a statement from Mr. Messenger intend to return to Boston to be married, despite Miss McDonald's claims.

At the time of filing her suit, Miss McDonald declared that Miss Cloud had appeared on the scene just as Mr. Messenger had made every arrangement for their marriage, and that the Kentucky girl, who is but nineteen, had succeeded in a short time in alienating the wool merchant's affections. Miss McDonald is twenty eight.

Appeared in Tights.

Miss Cloud, with whom Mr. Messenger appeared in the theme lineup, recently created a sensation in Kentucky by appearing as an amateur theatrical performance clad in tights.

Mr. Messenger is sixty-one, and has his place of business at No. 387 Washington street. His first wife, Gertrude Foster of Melrose, died in 1911.

Scarcely able to talk in the excitement of the issuance of his marriage license in Kentucky, Mr. Messenger was found with Miss Cloud and Mrs. Lena Cameron, her aunt, in Louisville, where he was celebrating the event with a small dinner party.

Will Marry Here.

"I am not going to get married just yet," he declared, "but I wanted to get the license here so that I would not have to buy one when I marry Miss Cloud. I don't want this to get into the papers.

"I expect Miss Cloud to come to Boston, but I cannot say just when the marriage will take place.

"I am involved just $75,000 worth, now, in the Boston suit. The woman who is suing me made no trouble until she learned that I was in love with Miss Cloud. I was not engaged to Miss Cloud in Boston, and we were just good friends, nothing more. I first met her in a sanitarium here where she was employed."

'Lost 80 Pounds? It's Only 60," Says Taft

But to Abolish Lincoln Commission Would Be Serious Matter.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—"What do you think of Representative Borland's attempt to abolish the Lincoln Memorial Commission and create a new commission" former President Taft was asked today.

"Well, when they took the presidency away from me, I did not care so much for that, really, so unhesitatingly, but if they should take away my chairmanship of the commission, I don't know what I would do," laughed the former President.

Mr. Taft declared that he has not lost eighty pounds in weight. Shaking his fist, he said, "That is a malicious lie. I have lost only sixty pounds."

Sullivan to Head Dorchester P. O.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—On the recommendation of Representative Curley of Massachusetts, Postmaster-General Burleson today appointed Daniel E. Sullivan superintendent at the Dorchesterg station of the Postoffice in Boston. Sullivan has been acting superintendent since the resignation of Wendell Jones because of illness.

Dr. Otis' Daughter Greatly Improved

Friends of Dr. Edward Otis, No. 283 Beacon street, were elated today to hear of the speedy convalescence of his nine-teen-year-old daughter, Miss Olive Otis, from infantile paralysis. Her recovery was regarded as extremely doubtful for many days.

Friday Three-Hour Sales

AS THE NEW MAN SEES IT

I came to Filene's Basement store a few weeks ago, because I thought it offered an opportunity to clean out small lots that would be left from the regular selling. I was not looking for bargains. There was no need for me to look for bargains. Three things made me change my mind about Filene's. I soon found that either the values were not what the goods de-served, or the prices were not what they should be. I found that either the values were not what the goods deserved, or the prices were not what they should be. I found that either the values were not what the goods deserved, or the prices were not what they should be.

LACE CURTAINS

How Our Buying Methods and Direct Importations Give the Best at Least Possible Prices

BOSTON Women are the most exacting curtain buyers in America and our plans and methods of buying abroad have been definitely shaped to suit their critical taste.

In European curtain manufacturing centres—at Brussels, Paris, Nottingham, St. Gall or Glasgow—our buyer does not accept the usual stock market patterns offered. We tell the foreign curtain makers what they must do. They give us what we want, not what they choose.

IRISH POINT LACE CURTAINS

Take for instance our five dollar line. Many of the designs belong in the 10.00 and 15.00 grades. Our buyer has a conference with the manufacturer. The designs are selected; the quality, the length to suit the average window and the manufacturing cost are agreed upon. Result—a curtain that looks and actually is in material the equal of higher priced curtains, but bought right so that we can sell them for

MRS. BLAKE TO PRESS MILLION MACKAY SUIT

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Mrs. Joseph A. Blake, the noted surgeon's wife, who has served Mrs. Clarence H. Mackay with papers in her demand for $1,000,000 for alleged alienation of her husband's affections, has definitely determined to enter the case in court, it became known today. George Gordon Battle, counsel for Mrs. Blake, also declared:

"Mrs. Blake is contemplating the filing of a suit for separation, but it will not be necessary to await the outcome of

LAST SEASON'S

Fall and Winter Suits and Overcoats

The S. H. Harrison Co., 662-672 Washington St., will sell the balance of their Fall and Winter Suits and Overcoats at the following prices: All suits and overcoats marked $18 to $22 will be sold at $9.75; all Fall Overcoats, in fine black thibet, black unfinished worsteds and grey oxfords, silk lined to edge, $20, $22, $25 values, choice at $9.75.

S. H. HARRISON CO.

662-672 Washington St., Cor. Beach.

Mrs. Mackay Will Make No Comment

The American today telegraphed to Mrs. Clarence H. Mackay at Portland, Me., inquiring if she cared to make any statement regarding the Blake suit. The following message was received in reply:

Editor American:

Thanks for the courtesy. Prefer to make no statement of any kind.

KATHERINE MACKAY.

the alienation suit before taking such a course. Mrs. Blake has sufficient evidence to proceed in the action for separation without depending upon the same evidence which will be introduced in the alienation suit. Mrs. Mackay's name will not figure in the suit for separation."

Friends of Mrs. Mackay, who has been in Portland for several months, have received the report she may sue for divorce. The Maine law names seven causes as grounds for divorce. They are: Cruel, abusive treatment, extreme cruelty; gross and confirmed habits of intoxication through the use of intoxicating liquors, opium or other drugs; utter desertion for three consecutive years prior to the filing of the libel; non-support, if the husband has the ability or is able to labor and wilfully and cruelly fails or neglects to supply proper maintenance, and adultery. In none of the cases can action be filed in a Maine court unless the party seeking the divorce has been a resident of Maine for at least one year.

Before retaining the law firm of O'Gorman, Battle & Vandiver, Mrs. Blake, it was learned today, had consulted William Travers Jerome, formerly District Attorney of New York County, as to the advisability of bringing suit against Mrs. Mackay. Mr. Jerome, it is said, advised against such course. Mr. Battle intimated today that he, too, had opposed such action, but the matter was definitely decided by his client.

In her vigorous battle Mrs. Blake will attack the title of "Harbor Hill," the $6,000,000 Mackay estate at Roslyn, L. I. Mrs. Blake's lawyer said today:

"Summons and complaint in the alienation suit were served on Arthur C. Train, lawyer for Mrs. Mackay, on February 17. On February 19 a deed of trust was filed in the office of the clerk of Nassau County, transferring Mrs. Mackay's rights and title to Harbor Hill to her husband and H. W. Cook as trustees.

"Under the terms of the transfer, the estate will be held in trust for the only son, John W. Mackay, now six years old. This transfer was, in my opinion, illegal, and it will be contested.

"Acting for Mrs. Mackay, Mr. Train served on me his client's answer within the prescribed twenty days. The answer was a general denial of the charges made in the complaint. Mrs. Blake made no charges of misconduct on the part of either Mrs. Mackay or Dr. Blake. Her only allegation is that Mrs. Mackay had been guilty of the alienation of the affections of her husband."

PATRICK HYNES, who has not been heard from since he left home after complaining of being ill.

Seek 'L' Conductor, Missing a Week

Everett Man Disappears After Starting for Hospital.

Patrick Hynes of No. 25 Revere street, Everett, until a week ago an Elevated conductor, is missing from the home of his uncle, Patrick J. Curley.

According to Mr. Curley, Hynes about a week ago complained of being ill. The next day he said that he was going to a Boston Hospital for treatment. He has not been heard from since.

Hynes is twenty-three years. When he went away he wore a light gray suit and cap, and black shoes. He is about five feet seven inches tall.

SAY POLICE LET GIRL PICKET BE KNOCKED DOWN

Charges that the police did not attempt to prevent a clash between members of the Cloak and Skirt Makers' Union, now on strike among the Salem street shops, and strike-breakers under the protection of the police, in which a girl picket and several strikers were knocked down and beaten, were made to Business Agent Benjamin Horn of the union today.

According to Horn two automobiles, one containing five strike-breakers and the other five policemen, were driven up before the shop of B. Weinberg, Salem street, today. When a girl picket and several male companions approached the strike-breakers they were beaten.

Horn says the girl was knocked down and trampled on while the policemen sat in their automobile until they finally helped to hustle the strike-breakers upstairs into Weinberg's shop, but refused to assist the girl or any of her companions.

The pickets were finally taken off to union headquarters, where their injuries were treated. Then Horn went to Attorney John P. Feeney and instructed him to apply for warrants and to lodge a formal complaint with Police Commissioner O'Meara charging that the Hanover street officers are neglecting their duty.

Since the strike was called, a week ago, fifteen firms have granted the union's demands and reinstated 158 employes. Thirty shops employing 225 are still out, but two of these are reported to have applied for settlement today.

SAY PRISONER IS DOUBLE OF SLAYER ELLIS

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 25.—The Indianapolis police declare that Joseph Ellis, Fred Brokaw, arrested in San Francisco, is not the Ellis wanted for the murder of Joseph Schlinsky, a wealthy merchant, but that he is a double of the real Ellis.

It is further declared that the two men, Ellis and Brokaw, have profited by their likeness to commit a series of crimes throughout the country, relying on their similarity of feature to establish an alibi.

The police declare that the Ellis wanted for the slaying is still in this city, as photographs have been sent broadcast throughout the country with a description of the man.

Andra Baker Anderson will recover from her attempt to commit suicide, it is said today. She declared that she married Ellis, under the name of Anderson, when he was a chauffeur, in July, and that he deserted her two weeks later.

The soldier, who operated in several cities, took advantage of his likeness to Fred Brokaw, under arrest at San Francisco, to seek safety after his crimes, the detectives believe. They say that it is possible that the mercenary robbed In Pittsburgh identified the picture of Brokaw as the man who attacked him when he really was a victim of the sun he believed to be Ellis.

The picture of Brokaw was also identified by Maurice Raff of Louisville as the man who robbed him last Saturday, by sale of Schlinsky and a pawnbroker here to whom Raff's watch was pledged.

As Brokaw could not have been here this week, it convinces the police that a mistake in the picture has been made.

Funeral Saturday for Mrs. Draper

Services for Wife of Former Governor at Hopedale.

Funeral of Mrs. Ellen S. Draper, wife of the ex-Governor, will take place, it was announced today, Saturday afternoon at the Memorial Church in Hopedale, which was built in memory of the father of ex-Governor Draper, General George Draper.

Mrs. Draper died suddenly at "The Lodges," the Draper Summer home, from heart disease at the age of fifty-five. Her husband and her two sons, B. H. Bristow and Eben S. Draper, Jr., were with her.

Mrs. Draper was the daughter of the late General Benjamin H. Bristow, secretary of the treasury under the administration of President Grant. For many years Mrs. Draper, as Nannie Bristow, was a favorite in social circles in Washington and New York. Her marriage to Mr. Draper took place in 1883.

Taft and McAdoo Discuss Postoffice

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Former President Taft spent half an hour with Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo today discussing the exterior finish of the New Haven Postoffice Building. Mr. Taft gave the secretary views and wishes of the New Haven citizens on the quality of stone work desired. There has been a question as to the character and quality of the material to be used.

My Husband Is Still Sober

We Are Doing Well Now. Two Bottles of Renova Cured Him

So writes Mrs. Bowman of Watertown; her experience is like that of hundreds of others, and you can make it your experience if you have a dear one who is a victim of intemperance. Read her letter: "Would you please send me some of your circulars on Renova, as I have distributed all I had. My husband is still sober, two bottles cured him. We are doing well now. He travels nearly all the time and lives in the hotels and don't touch a drop." The woman who means business can have a sober husband. Just go to Riker-Jaynes' and get a package of Renova, and put a little of it into his tea, coffee, soups, etc. Absolutely tasteless and harmless and given without his knowledge.

If you'd like to try it free before you buy a dollar package, write in confidence to the Renova Co., 264 Broadway, New York, for a sample and proofs of what Renova does for victims of intemperance.

ASKS COURT TO RULE WHO'S WHO IN NEW ENGLAND

Who are our REAL New England families?

That is the question Mrs. Lavinia M. P. Brackett of Brookline, sued by a book firm, wants the Suffolk County Courts to decide.

Were the Longfellows left out because they were not sufficiently distinguished?

Was President John Quincy Adams less important than various Adamses included?

Why were the Lowells, Elliots, and Emersons apparently blacklisted?

Why were the Sewells, Richards, Runnells and Dugans genuine New Englanders? Time these questions for an answer, she would like also to know on what principle individuals and families were selected by the publishers.

While Congressman Curley a few months ago mentioned the Dugan family as prominent through one of its members having a grog shop at which the members of the Boston Tea Party refreshed themselves after prayers while on their way to dampen the British chests in Boston Harbor, Mrs. Brackett wants to know why the Dugans were included in the book she received. She thinks others better entitled to be paged in the literary Hall of Fame.

The papers in the suit against her, brought by the Lewis Historical Publishing Company of Boston, relate that she subscribed for a four volume de luxe set, to cost $135. She gave the agent a check for that amount, but later stopped payment on it when she found that most of the "New England Families" were unfamiliar to her.

PAULINE REVERE, "Boston's Richest Poor Girl," descendant of the Revolutionary hero, who will hang a lantern in the Christ Church belfry, October 8, in connection with the bankers' convention.

Pauline Revere to Hang Light in Belfry

Descendant of Revolutionary Hero a Feature of Celebration.

Miss Pauline Revere of No. 115 Dale street, Roxbury, known as Boston's "richest little poor girl," will achieve a new and signal one pair interlude, when she hangs the Paul Revere anniversary lanterns in the belfry of Christ Church October 8. Miss Revere is a descendant of the Revolutionary saddle hero and a protege of Mrs. Nathaniel Thayer of Lancaster and the Back Bay.

Miss Revere's lantern hanging will be done in connection with the special program of historical exercises arranged in connection with the coming bankers' convention.

Marshall May Take House in Baltimore

BALTIMORE, Sept. 25.—Vice President Marshall is contemplating residing in Baltimore, it is the belief of many of Baltimore society folk. Mrs. Marshall with several friends came to this city yesterday in an automobile and inspected the leading residential districts. It is believed that the Marshalls, being unable to secure a suitable residence in the Capital city, have decided to come here.

Tufts Sophomore Elections.

The result of the Tufts College sophomore class elections was announced today: President, Henry A. Stafford of Orleans, Vt.; vice-president, Robert L. McLellan of Dorchester; secretary, Albert W. Swenson of Medford; treasurer, Everett C. Hunt of Somerville; marshal, Elliot W. Hayes of Winthrop.

MURPHY DENIES MRS. MERRIAM WAS HIS MUSE

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 25.—While the tittering of a hundred spectators accompaniment, Clarence Wainwright Murphy, who traveled 9,000 miles to appear on behalf of Mrs. Bessie C. Merriam of Whitinsp, Mass., wife of Captain Henry C. Merriam, fighting her husband's action for divorce, read the words of a love ballad, "At the Grindin' of the Canes," in Judge Graham's courtroom.

Mr. Murphy denied that Mrs. Merriam was the "Bessie" referred to in the dedication, but failed to say who was. Nor did he explain the French inscription on the face of the love song, which, translated, means "For thee, my sweetheart," and was followed by the word "Bessie" and the initial "C."

Mr. Murphy admitted he composed music for his own pleasure. The words of the song in question, he said, were written by some one else about the time the Merriams left Jackson barracks.

"Have you any affection for Mrs. Merriam?" was the blunt question put to Mr. Murphy.

"I like her as a friend, but have no affection of the heart for her," he replied.

Mrs. Merriam's 15-year-old daughter testified in her mother's behalf. Captain Merriam left the court room when the child was called to the stand, after instructing his counsel not to cross-examine her under any circumstances.

It is expected that the end of the hearing will be reached today.

Mrs. A. D. Ray, mother of Mrs. Merriam, corroborated the testimony of the defendant as to an attempted shooting in June, 1911, while Captain Merriam had declared was an attempt on his life, while his wife asserts she was trying to commit suicide.

Posse Hunts Man For Lynn Stabbing

The police of Lynn today searched for Antonio Patrinosi, who attacked and fatally wounded Pierostadio Nestles with a knife in a Peabody morocco factory. Posses scoured the woods in every direction.

A party of boys saw a man in his shirt and trousers, barefooted, racing along the Lynnfield road today. They thought he was training for a Marathon race and followed. The man began ordering the boys and ran into the woods where they ddred not follow. Later he was seen, still barefooted, headed in the direction of Peabody. It is thought he is Patrinosi. Kotlos is at the point of death.

Women Hysterical As Car Is Derailed

Passengers Walk Along Tracks to Boylston Street Station.

Several women became hysterical today ewehen a Dudley street car jumped the tracks in the Tremont street subway near the Boylston street entrance. There were thirty-eight cars in the tunnel and twenty more had been blocked outside before the blockade was lifted.

A hundred or more passengers were guided by motormen and conductors along the tracks in the semi-darkness to the Boylston street station.

Mexican Catholics Nominate Gamboa

Believe Foreign Minister Has Secret Backing of Huerta.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 25.—The Catholic party has nominated Federico Gamboa for President and General Eugenio Rascon for Vice President, despite Senor Gamboa's personal statement that he would accept the nomination under no conditions.

Senor Gamboa, who has only recently been appointed Foreign Minister, is believed to have the secret backing of General President Huerta.

Under the electoral law forbidding the election to the Presidency of any man who has been in the Cabinet less than six months before election day, Gamboa is ineligible.

NERVOUS PROSTRATION

Severe Case of a Philadelphia Woman—Her Symptoms

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I had a severe case of nervous prostration, with palpitation of the heart, constipation, headaches, dizziness, nausea in my ears, timid, nervous, restless feelings and sleeplessness.

"I read in the paper where a young woman had been cured of the same troubles by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound so I threw away the medicines the doctor left me and began taking the Compound. Before I had taken half a bottle I was able to sit up and in a short time I was able to do all my work. Your medicine has proved itself able to do all you say it will and I have recommended it in every household I have visited."—Mrs. MARY JOHNSTON, 210 Siegel Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Another Bad Case.

Ephrata, Pa.—"About a year ago I was down with nervous prostration. I was pale and weak and would have hysteric spells, sick headaches and a bad pain under my shoulder-blade. I was under the care of different doctors, but did not improve. I was so weak I could hardly stand long enough to do my dishes.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has made me well and happy and I have begun to gain in weight and my face looks healthy now."—Mrs. J. W. HORNBERGER, R. No. 3, Ephrata, Pa.

All our testimonials are guaranteed genuine and truthful. The original of each came to us entirely unsolicited. They are sincere expressions of gratitude for actual benefits received from the medicine.

BOARD TO MAKE NEW HAVEN EXPLAIN FUND

Public Service Commissioner George W. Anderson announced today that he would demand a complete accounting from the New Haven road of just how and for what purpose it spent the $587,409.71 which it casually listed as "other expenses" in its financial statement filed with the commissioners. The board demanded details of those expenses, and in reply the New Haven submitted an accounting covering $101,536.39.

"The public has the right to know what services were rendered by the men who received this money," said Commissioner Anderson today. "And what about the $236,536.39 which is not accounted for? How was this money spent—who got it and what did they do to earn it? The public has as much right to know how a public service corporation spends its money as the public has to know my salary and expenses."

Call It "Regular."

Men whose names figured in the New Haven list hastened today to explain how they came to receive money from the New Haven.

Michael E. Hennessy, political editor of the Boston Globe, stated that the work he contributed to the corporation was solely for publicity matters outside his regular duties. This was also the case in the recorded services of George H. Sargent of the Boston Transcript. Mr. Sargent said:

John J. Buchanan, for many years with the Boston Globe, also announced that any fees coming to his office were in connection with the placing of advertising through legitimate channels. Mr. Buchanan stated that he conducted an advertising business and that the New Haven advertising came in the regular routine of business.

Another Benton.

The name "J. B. Benton" appeared to the list printed in yesterday's AMERICAN as having received payments from the New Haven. This was due to an error in copying the name from the list on file with the Public Service commissioners, and should have read "J. H. Benton." There is only one J. B. Benton in the Boston directory—Jay B. Benton, city editor of the Boston Transcript. It should be stated in justice to Mr. Benton, therefore, that his name does not appear in the list and should in no way be connected with the payments of money by the New Haven.

William A. Murphy, State House reporter for the Boston Globe, declared that the payment came from work on political circulars during five years.

Mr. Murphy's statement follows:

"For the last seven years I have made four or five abstracts of all bills, resolves and petitions referring to corporations and organized labor. I have made a digest of all bills relating to labor and capital and subsidiary bills.

"Five of these seven years I have sold one of these copies to the New Haven road, for which I received compensation."

Louis D. Brandeis, commenting on the revelations, declared:

"The disclosures made in the statement of the seven months' disbursements of the New Haven, are such as should lead the Public Service Commission to call for a similar accounting of all the disbursements by the New Haven and all its subsidiaries during the Mellen management."

Charles H. Innes of the law firm of Innes & Tuttle, which received $10,000 from the New Haven during the month of June, said:

"I do not represent nor have I ever represented the New Haven in legislative matters. Such money as has been received by my firm from the New Haven was for purely legal business."

Innes and his law partner, William Tuttle of Pittsfield, are former members of the House and Senate.

Alleged Gundorf Swindlers Taken

NEW YORK Sept. 25.—Daniel Y. Giroux, alleged to be one of the famous Gundorf band of wife trippers and confidence men, and wanted by the police for participation in two of the most barefaced swindles of recent years, was arrested in Toronto today, according to information received from there by Deputy Commissioner Dougherty. With him was arrested "Charlie" Gundorf, the alleged head of the band, who is out on $25,000 bail on a charge of grand larceny. Giroux is wanted here in connection with the swindling of George Fairchild, a Meriden (Ct.) broker, of $20,000, and William E. Shibley, a merchant of Springfield, Mass., of $26,000.

should leave nothing undone" to "conduce to greater safety," stamped there. They did not see to it that their resolution was carried into effect. They assumed the vote was self-enforcing."

"Rules were inadequately enforced, the blame for which must be charged to the officials. And while all this was true, high speed was required. And this high speed was required over the section of road where this accident occurred, while there may be no legal obligation to provide for the safe operation of high speed trains, especially during foggy or stormy weather, notwithstanding the rule governing their operation. As a result of the action of the State commission, a modern signal system is now being installed between Springfield and New Haven."

In its review Commissioner McCord said:

"When public authorities call their attention to the non-performance of the duty of safeguarding this enterprise, where governmental authorities call public attention to the necessity of further action by the directors of a railroad upon which such calamities are recurring is called for then a formal reaffirmation of a rule delegating the whole safety question to one official.

"The safety problem of this railroad is primarily a question for itself. If governmental interference and action is called for, it results from the inaction of the corporation itself. The government, through the enactment of legislation by Congress, has the power, if this railroad will not itself exercise its own authority in the premises, to compel the safeguarding of traffic over this line.

"The report contains no recommendations, except by inference, and no orders, as the Interstate Commerce Commission is without authority to control or supervise the operation of trains. It is suggested, however, that the forthcoming annual report of the commission will recommend to Congress the enactment of laws conferring specific authority upon the commission to regulate train operations.

THINK STRANGE MAN IN WOODS KIDNAPED GIRL

Much anxiety is felt by the parents and friends of sixteen-year-old Marion Leonard, the Dedham high school girl who is believed to have been kidnaped by a strange man reported to have been seen by several children hanging around the woods in the vicinity of the Leonard home.

She left home on Tuesday morning to go to school. She was thirty minutes late in starting. To get to school she was obliged to walk two minutes through woods. She has not been seen or heard from since. Since the investigation began it has been learned that she had not been to school since the opening day.

Several children on their way to school have seen a strange man in the woods. They describe him as being quite old, wearing glasses and a beard. He was sitting in the woods sewing industriously with needle and thread on men's garments.

The Leonard home is some distance from the centre of the town. It is but a short distance from the Readville race track. The vicinity it is said, has lately been infested with tramps.

Miss Leonard is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Leonard of Metropolis street. Last year she was a pupil of the high school, but failed of promotion. She is also said to have expressed a displeasure of having to take the same course over again this year.

Mr. Leonard is employed as a chauffeur for a Mrs. Tartel of Milton.

MRS. RANTOUL ILL; UNABLE TO ATTEND COURT

Mrs. Lois Burnett Rantoul, the granddaughter of James Russell Lowell, is so seriously ill over worry about her two children that she was unable to appear in court today for the hearing of her petition against her husband, Edward B. Rantoul.

Mrs. Rantoul declares that her husband discharged the nurse who had been with the children for two years, and had so neglected the children that they had become as thin as "shadow bones." This petition was to have been heard today by Judge McLaughlin in the East Cambridge Court.

Today, however, her attorneys were informed by telegraph that Mrs. Rantoul, who has been recuperating at Westwood, on Lake Champlain, N. Y., is so ill that it is dangerous to attempt a train journey of any kind. Judge McLaughlin was asked to postpone the case. He reserved his decision on the postponement till tomorrow.

At the time of the divorce hearing, which was interrupted by the collapse of Mrs. Rantoul on the witness stand, the court decreed her $350 a month for the education of the children and custody of the children for half the year.

The children are still with Mr. Rantoul, at Beverly. They are in the care of a nurse from the Massachusetts General Hospital hired by Rantoul after he had discharged Miss Richardson, their regular governess.

Hold Suspect as Vermont Fugitive

A man arrested by the police of the City Hall station, believed to be Patrick McGowan, who escaped from the State Prison at Windsor, Vt., March 2, where he was serving six years for burglary, is being held there, awaiting the arrival of Vermont officials for identification.

The suspect was recognized by the son of a former Vermont sheriff, George Horton of Burlington, Vt. McGowan, after serving only a short part of his sentence, scaled the prison walls. Once over, he got clear by the assistance of a woman confederate who had a horse and buggy waiting for him. The woman, Miss Laura Osmere, is being sought by the Vermonts.

SOAP ON HAIR CAUSES DANDRUFF, SCALP GETS DRY, HAIR FALLS OUT

Girls! Get a 25-cent bottle and try a "Danderine Hair Cleanse."

After washing your hair with soap always apply a little Danderine to the scalp to invigorate the hair and prevent dryness. Better still, use sopp as sparingly as possible and instead have a "Danderine Hair Cleanse." Just moisten a cloth with Danderine and draw it carefully through your hair, taking one strand at a time. This will remove dust, dirt and excessive oil in a few moments you will be amazed, your hair will not only be clean, but it will be wavy, fluffy and abundant, and possess an incomparable softness and lustre.

Besides cleansing and beautifying the hair, one application of Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; stimulates the scalp, stopping itching and falling hair. Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful.

Men! Ladies! You can surely have lots of charming hair. Get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and try it.

TELL BUYER OF GOODS' QUALITY, URGES CASSIDY

Mr. Cassidy discusses today the attempts made by certain produce and fruit men to interpret the law governing the sale of unwholesome food. In many cases this enables the wholesaler looking for dishonest profits to get rid of partly decayed goods.

By HARRY P. CASSIDY.

The AMERICAN caused to be put through the last Legislature an act, Chapter 687, which prevents the sale of unwholesome food. Recently many dealers have been interpreting the law to suit themselves.

The result has been that I am flooded with complaints from dealers, peddlers and housewives right down along the line, who have been victimized by buying what they believed pure goods only to find them on examination other than represented.

When this bill was before the Legislature some of the produce men came to me. One of them said, "Cassidy, this bill will allow a vicious food inspector to come along and prosecute us if he finds one bad vegetable or fruit in a lot."

To meet his complaint there was inserted in the law the provision that he might make fully known to the buyer such decay or unwholesomeness in the vegetable or fruit and thus protect himself.

But the dishonest food doper, who is continually striving by hook or crook to beat all law, is interpreting this law to suit himself.

His failure to make the condition of the article for food he is selling fully known to the purchaser sends the dissatisfaction all down the line. The retailer or peddler complains, he gets no satisfaction. He tries to get rid of his bad bargain. The housewife complains of her bad bargain and in turn seeks redress.

The government protects us from counterfeit money by striking the sprouts at its source. It doesn't wait until the counterfeit money is in circulation to act. It acts immediately the counterfeiter becomes known. Its swift action avoids the series of complaints which come when the money once reaches circulation.

The AMERICAN has exposed several sales of bad potatoes. There it was a case of the potato dealer showing samples out of one lot and filling orders out of inferior lots.

In one of these cases the seller sought to excuse his unfair sale by arguing that the buyer had experience enough to know the price was so far below the market price as to have put him on his guard.

Now the law explicitly states that such decayed vegetable, produce, fruit or other provisions wholly or partly decayed shall be sold only provided the condition be made fully known to the buyer.

I wish every dealer in such articles of food stuff would read this law which is so plain and unmistakably for the protection of both parties to the sale.

I have seen some food articles so decayed that if the sellers had fully made known the condition to the buyer, even then they couldn't sell the articles under this act. Yet they attempted to do it and plead ignorance.

No honest dealer protests against the provisions of Chapter 687. And those who do should find short shrift when their attempted sales become known.

INTRODUCING TO THE MEN OF BOSTON THE COUNTRY'S GREATEST TAILOR

—TOM WILSON

The opening of my magnificent new tailor-shop in Boston last Saturday clinches forever my title of "America's Greatest Custom Tailor."

No tailor in Boston or anywhere else has as many stores as are shown above. No tailor in this city or any other city can show photographs of even one-half as many shops as are operated under the Wilson banner.

In the worst rain-storm Boston has seen for years, I put onto my books, last Saturday, as many orders as I expected to take during the first two weeks of business.

Every order taken came from a man of intelligence. Every man who ordered a Wilson suit (or top coat) examined the wonderful line of all-wool fabrics in my gigantic stock and made his selection with his eyes wide open.

I may be a bit old fashioned in some of my methods, but I have yet to hear a complaint regarding the way customers are handled in my tailoring shops.

Absolute courtesy—the utmost deference to what my patrons want in the line of clothes—and an unlimited fund of tailoring knowledge all combine to make the Wilson shops the most successful in every city where I do business. Boston will be no exception.

I offer you no "fake" inducements to have your clothes made here. I simply want you to know that I give you more style, better quality woolens, classier lines and more dressy appearance than any tailor in Boston. Any "tailor" (?) can buy woolens, but it takes the master-craftsman to put the style, fit and workmanship into clothes.

I never compare my beautiful tailored garments with the wood-cut models of the ready-made clothiers. I assume that every man who gives it a thought would prefer tailor-made clothes, provided he can get them at the right prices. That is where Wilson makes good.

By doing the largest retail tailoring business in the United States, buying everything on a cash basis and selling the same way—I have systematized at least $20 out of the prices I would have to charge you if I operated only one dinky little tailor shop like the average tailor.

Here is the Wilson schedule of prices. It looks pretty much like every other clothing or tailoring price list until you find out the values behind the prices I quote as compared with what the other man offers you.

$15 $17.50 $20 $22.50 $25 SUIT OR TOPCOAT

YOUNGER MEN—

I make a specialty of classy lines in all my young men's models. I will guarantee you the handsomest suit you ever saw or else you can call it all off and get your money. I mean real styles—the genuine old dope in shoulders, front, waist, and trousers.

TAILORING BY MAIL—

By my system I can fit you by mail. I assume all the risk. If the suit isn't absolutely correct you can return it and I will refund all money paid. Write for style book, measuring blanks and samples. Show the boys in your town some class!

MAINZ THINKS SLAYER KILLED REAL SCHMIDT

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Rev. Hans Schmidt, now in jail here as the confessed slayer of Anna Aumuller, whose dismembered body he threw into the Hudson, is probably a false priest and the murderer of the real Father Schmidt, whose credentials he stole, according to dispatches received today from Germany.

Cablegrams from Mainz, where, the Rev. Hans Schmidt was well known by hundreds, are to the effect that after those who knew him most intimately had examined the photographs and measurements of Father Hans Schmidt, just received there from New York, they arrived at the conclusion that the man held for the murder of Anna Aumueller is not the Father Schmidt who was so well known in Mainz.

Schmidt may never be placed on trial. It was announced at the office of District Attorney Whitman today that if Dr. Carlos F. MacDonald and Dr. William Mabon, the famous alienists who examined Schmidt yesterday, report the prisoner insane, Mr. Whitman will probably make application that Schmidt be committed to the Matteawan Insane Asylum.

Garrison Scores West Point Hazers

"Take Your Medicine Like Men," He Tells Guilty Cadets.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Hazing at West Point received a severe setback and the hazers a soothing reprimand in a statement issued by Secretary of War Garrison today in connection with the punishment recently ordered by Superintendent Townsley to a number of cadets convicted of hazing plebes.

"I have investigated the recent hazing incident at West Point," said Secretary Garrison. "The boys were each clearly guilty. The punishment inflicted consisted mainly in depriving the guilty of certain of their privileges. I am extremely regretful that these boys should have written whining letters to their parents or others. The first element of manliness is to take your medicine like a man, particularly in a case where your own conduct has brought on the illness."

This Man Tells Time by Fingers

CLINTON, Sept. 25.—Dominick Pace can tell the time of day by his fingers. Today he is the wonder of the town. He startled all his associates by telling the time merely by the shadow of his middle finger when he stands facing the sun. His time by fingers varied but a few minutes from his companions' watches. Instead of putting his improvised watch into his pocket, he carefully wrapped it around a shovel handle.

JAMES SHIELDS MURPHY, former Boston man, strangely missing from Los Angeles.

Make Vain Search for J. S. Murphy

Family of Former Boston Man Fear Foul Play.

Friends and relatives of James Shields Murphy, former Bostonian and later a prominent broker and real estate agent in Los Angeles, who has a brother living at No. 18 Sagamore street, Dorchester, are trying to locate Murphy, who mysteriously disappeared from his home September 18 and who, it is feared, has met with foul play.

Mr. Murphy's wife and family in Los Angeles are prostrated over his disappearance. He generally carried large sums of money with him. Investigation of his business and family affairs afford no reason for his sudden disappearance.

Mr. Murphy was well known in golfing circles in Boston some years ago and started here the first golf journal in America.

Ammunition for Mexicans Seized

DOUGLAS, Ariz., Sept. 25.—Thirty thousand rounds of ammunition, alleged to have been consigned to agents of Mexican rebels, were confiscated here today by the federal authorities.

Back Bay Doctor Dies of Auto Crash

Quincy Accident Fatal to Dr. Orren B. Sanders.

Dr. Orren B. Sanders, a well known Back Bay specialist of 358 Commonwealth avenue, died today at the Quincy City Hospital from a fracture of the skull as a result of an automobile accident on Hancock street, that city, on Tuesday last.

Sanders' machine collided head on with a large auto belonging to the Citizens' Gas Light Company. The doctor was thrown to the ground, receiving a fatal gash in the head. James J. O'Donnell, the operator of the other auto, was not by shaken up.

Prisoner Asks for Drug Habit Cure

Clarence F. Russell, twenty-two, of No. 411 East Fifth street, South Boston, charged with using and having in his possession unlawful drugs, pleaded guilty before Judge Fallon today and when sentenced to three months on Deer Island, pleaded with the judge to send him to some institution where he could be cured of the morphine habit. Judge Fallon insisted that there was no other institution to which he could send the prisoner.

ULSTER REBEL WAR CRY: "ONE PARLIAMENT"

BELFAST, Ireland, Sept. 25.—Members of the Ulsterite Provisional government of Ulster province are drawing up a proclamation of allegiance to King George to be issued upon the same day that the Home Rule bill is put upon the statute books. It will pledge the loyalty of all Ulsterites to the King and reject autonomy for Ireland.

The leaders of the Anti-Home Rule movement, which threatens to plunge Ireland into civil war, are Sir Edward Carson, who has contributed $100,000 to fight home rule, and the Marquis of Londonderry, formerly Lord Lieutenant of Ireland.

Home rulers charge that Sir Edward and the others in the provisional government are importing professional soldiers of fortune and arming them to fight the Catholics. Feeling is at fever heat throughout the North.

Tariff Bill Will Be Delayed Week

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—House and Senate conferees on the tariff bill began consideration of the few items in dispute today with the expectation that agreement soon would be reached. Passage of the tariff bill necessarily will be delayed for at least a week owing to the agreement of the conferees to disagree on the cotton futures taxation section. It is believed that President Wilson can attend the conference to report a disagreement with the expectation that the House then will initiate a modified form of taxation on cotton futures which the Senate will accept.

Try This Treatment For Hairy Growths

(Hair to Beauty)

A single application of a paste made by mixing together a little powdered delatone and water and applied to objectionable hairs for about 2 or 3 minutes, then rubbed off, takes with it every trace of hair or fuzz. The skin should then be washed to free it from the remaining paste and it will be firm and spotless. This is a quick, painless treatment, but its success depends greatly on using fresh delatone, which can be purchased only in original packages.—adv.

BOSTON AMERICAN SPORTING NEWS

CRIMSON SQUAD WILL GET ITS FIRST SCRIMMAGE ON STADIUM FIELD TODAY

Francis Ouimet Says:

BAY STATE TEAM HAS FINE CHANCE TO WIN LESLEY CUP

Written expressly for the Boston AMERICAN by the open golf champion of the United States.

By FRANCIS OUIMET.

Francis Ouimet.

NEVER before has Massachusetts had such a splendid chance to win the Lesley Cup as this year.

This cup, as you no doubt know, is competed for annually by teams representing the Metropolitan Golf Association, Philadelphia Golf Association and the Massachusetts Golf Association. At present the Philadelphia Golf Association holds the trophy and therefore must defend her claim to it by meeting the winner of the match between Massachusetts and New York.

Massachusetts has a very finely balanced team in that there is very little to choose between the first and last man selected to play, there being ten on a side. The loss of Henry Stuckles, of course, is very hard to replace, but Massachusetts is very fortunate in having Brice Evans on the team.

His game has improved wonderfully and he is a very hard man to beat, especially at match play. Then again the added knowledge of the course at the Country Club is a great asset.

The New York team is also a good one, having Jerome Travers, amateur champion; Fred Herreshoff, Gilman Tiffany and other sterling golfers.

The Philadelphia team, winners last year, will have the services of Eben M. Byers, who gave "Chick" Evans such a hard fight at Garden City; W. C. Fownes, Jr., an old campaigner in the number of matches he has played; H. B. McFarland, H. W. Perrin, G. A. Ormiston, C. B. Buxton and a few others not so well known.

It is probable that the foursomes will be played in the morning and singles in the afternoon. One reason for this is that in the past when the singles were played in the morning enough matches were won to decide a winner without the foursomes, making the playoff of the latter a mere formality.

This year's contest should be very exciting and interesting.

All-Star Show at the Atlas Club Tonight

Three Ten-Round Bouts Should Furnish the "Fans" Plenty of Action.

By JACK CONWAY.

THERE will be three ten-round bouts at the all-star show at the Atlas A. A. this evening. The rival boxers are well matched, and some rugged battles are expected by the "fans."

The complete card is as follows: Al McCoy of Brooklyn vs. Noah Brusso of Attleboro, Joe Chick of Gloucester vs. "Young" Jasper of Boston and Al Delmont of Boston vs. "Irish Paddy" Callahan of Brooklyn.

A good-sized crowd of flatle lovers is sure to turn out in order to witness the festivities, as there is usually plenty of sport at all-star shows, the boxers being more willing to fight than some of the young men who parade around the country advertising themselves as champions.

After spending the past twenty-four hours reading the "dope" book, we take our life in hand and pick the winners of the three bouts. Our guess is as follows:

Al McCoy to defeat Noah Brusso.

Joe Chick to defeat "Young" Jasper.

"Irish Paddy" Callahan to defeat Al Delmont.

We have got an idea that even if our selections fail to breeze in winners they will at the very least get draws. We do not see how any of them can be vanquished, though, of course, every man has got a right to his own opinion in this little old republic of ours.

McCOY IS GOOD PERFORMER.

AL McCOY has done some good fighting in New York rings. He has met many of the best welterweights in the Empire State, and he believes that he will prove too fast and rugged for Brusso.

Brusso is well known to New England's ring followers. He has been performing at local clubs for several years and has put up some good battles.

Brusso is not a finished boxer, but he is a sterling infighter. He is an aggressive young man and is never idle from the time that the bell sounds at the opening of the first round until the bout comes to an end.

The Attleboro man packs a stiff punch in either hand. If McCoy bores Brusso at long range, he should win, but he will be taking similar liberties with his ring reputation if he swaps punches with Hector McInnis' protege.

CHICK LIKE NELSON.

THE whirl between Joe Chick and "Young" Jasper has aroused considerable interest. These two welterweights clashed at the Arena a week ago last Tuesday in an eight-round tussle, and it was one of the best bouts staged in this city this year.

Chick is a fireless fighter, like Frank Klaus. He is a very crude boxer, but is aggressive and has the heart of a lion. He reminds one of Battling Nelson the way he keeps forcing the issue, refusing to retreat a single inch, even though riddled with slashing left and right hand punches.

Jasper made a fine showing in his last bout with Chick. He did not show as well at close quarters as the Gloucester boy, but he did the best work at long range and scored many telling left-hand punches.

DELMONT HOPES TO WIN.

THE feature bout will bring together "Irish Paddy" Callahan of Brooklyn and Al Delmont of this city. These men are old rivals and they should put up a spirited battle. They will weight in at 126 pounds at 6 o'clock this afternoon.

Callahan has not boxed in New England for over a year. He has been very busy in New York and has won many bouts. Paddy is a sweet puncher and if he is able to break down Delmont's defence he will cause the little Italian a lot of trouble.

One must not forget that Delmont is one of the cruftiest boxers in the business. He has met almost all of the leading boxers of his weight in the world and has made a startling ring record.

Delmont is confident he will win from Callahan. He asserts that he is in good condition and that he will prove too fast for the Brooklyn featherweight.

TOMMY McFARLAND TRAINING.

TOMMY McFARLAND, the North End bantamweight, is preparing for a strenuous campaign in the squared enclosure. McFarland is one of the best boxers of his weight in New England and is eager to get a bout with Larry Burns, Patsy Green or "Young" Sandow.

GLOVE MEN AT BEVERS'.

OVER a score of boxers are training at George Bevers' gymnasium in the West End. The majority of the New England boxing clubs will open for the season soon and the mitt men want to be in the best of condition.

MATTY AND EDDIE.

EDDIE MURPHY and Matty Baldwin are preparing for their twelve-round encounter, which will take place at the Atlas A. A. next Tuesday night. When these men last met, the contest was declared a draw, but both boxers claim that there will not be any doubt as to which is the better man after next week's go.

New York Names Lesley Cup Team

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—The team which will represent the Metropolitan Golf Association in the tri-State matches for the Lesley cup at the Country Club, Brookline, beginning tomorrow, has been announced. The following men will play in the order named:

Jerome D. Travers, Upper Montclair; Frederick Herreshoff, Westbrook; John M. Ward, Garden City; Gilman P. Tiffany, Powelton; Archie M. Reid, St. Andrews; Henry J. Topping, Greenwich; Robert C. Watson, Englewood; McKim Hoffman, Westbrook, and Findlay S. Douglas, captain, of Nassau.

Peculiar interest is attached to the match with Massachusetts, in view of the fact that Travers will find himself opposed to the youthful Francis Ouimet, the National open champion.

Penn Star Badly Hurt in Scrimmage

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 25.—Henry Crawford, a star halfback on the University of Pennsylvania football team, is today suffering from internal injuries as the result of a scrimmage between the varsity and scrubs. There is a possibility that he may not be able to play again this season.

Willets May Lead Harvard Ice Team

Coverpoint W. A. Willetts of the Harvard hockey team may succeed Alvin F. Sarwell, captain-elect, who will not return to college. Sarwell has played rover on the team for the past two seasons.

After an Examination the Doctor Tells Fans "Sledge" Was Doped.

"Sledge" was in the ring to fight a big heavyweight named Al Bennett, with whom he had battled two draws. These fights having been very close, much money was wagered on this contest.

"Hy Bygo," his manager, leaned over "Sledge's" shoulder after he entered the ring and in a quiet tone told him that if he would "lay down" to Big Al in the third round he would give him $200 besides his share of the purse.

"Sledge" told his manager that he was in the ring to win and that he would not "lay down" until he was unable to stand up. "Hy" laughed and said he was proud of him. In the first two rounds "Sledge" showed class by knocking Big Al down twice and out-pointing him and out-boxing him.

When he left his corner at the beginning of the third round he suddenly became dizzy and staggered. He fell against the ropes and then Bennett's mighty right smashed against his shoulder and "Sledge" fell heavily to the floor. He was counted out.

As the referee counted "ten," the spectators started a wild uproar, jumping from their seats and shouting "fake." A doctor climbed through the ropes and pushing Bygo aside, examined the unconscious fighter as he lay on the floor. After a close examination of "Sledge," he faced the crowd and raising his hand for silence, shouted "He has been doped."

"Sledge's" seconds and manager were roughly handled by the infuriated spectators that night and but for the interference of the police would have come to bodily harm. When the facts learned of the proposition Bygo had made to "Sledge" and how the latter had refused to go into the "deal," the young White Hope became more popular than ever.

Smith-Langford Bout Declared Off

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—The Garden Athletic Club has announced that the ten-round bout arranged to take place in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night between Gunboat Smith of California, and Sam Langford, the Boston negro, is off.

This announcement was made shortly after the New York State Athletic Commission had decided unanimously to refuse the rule prohibiting bouts between negro and white pugilists in this State. The commissioners declare they are not discriminating against race or color. They have power under the Frawley law to make any rules they consider necessary for the preservation of good conduct of the sport.

Yale Will Erect a Hockey Rink

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 25.—Announcement has been made at Yale that an artificial ice hockey rink will be erected here and ready for use during the coming Winter. The new rink will be the only one of its kind between New York and Boston, it will mean much to hockey at Yale. The rink will have a surface of 200 by 185 feet.

T. L. Daniels, '14, manager of the hockey team, said: "It is an established fact that Harvard had poorer material last year than any of its rivals, but because of her superior facilities for constant practice was enabled to turn out a winning combination."

Dillon-Christie Matched.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Jack Dillon and Gus Christie, middleweights, have been matched to box ten rounds at Cincinnati on September 29. Dillon also has been matched to meet Leo Houck of Philadelphia in a six-round affair at Lancaster, Pa., October 2.

Natick Boy Will Lead Andover Team

ANDOVER, Sept. 25.—The Phillips Andover Academy football team will be led this Fall by William J. Murray of Natick, whose election to the captaincy to succeed Robert Mars of Duluth, resigned, was announced after votes had been received by mail from all last year's eleven. Mars was unable to return to the academy on account of illness

WORLD SERIES OPENING FIXED FOR OCTOBER 7

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 25.—With the knowledge that the Athletics will win the American League pennant and the assumption that the Giants will do likewise in the National League, the National Baseball Commission me today and directed that the first game of the series for the championship of the world be played in New York Tuesday, October 7.

The games will be played alternately in New York and Philadelphia until either the Giants or the Athletics have won four games. The proceeds of the series will be distributed as in former years.

The commission appointed Umpires Connolly and Egan to arbitrate for the American League and Klem and Rigler for the National. This occasioned some surprise as Klem and Rigler were the National League umpires in last year's world's series. President Ban Johnson distributed the plums. O'Loughlin and Evans officiated for his league last year.

The Philadelphia team is the only National League organization that still has a chance to beat out the Giants for the pennant and in the remote contingency that the Phillies should nose out New York it would be simple to substitute them for the Giants in the world series, thus playing the entire series in Philadelphia.

Palzer Licks Miller.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Al Palzer, the big Western farmer, gained a slight victory over Charlie Miller of San Francisco, in a ten-round bout at the St. Nicholas A. C.

The Manicure Lady

"This is my birthday, George," said the Manicure Lady. "I would have forgot it if mother hadn't given me a present and if I hadn't got this birthday card from one of my gentleman friends. Oh, dear me, George, as you grow older are birthdays ain't so important, are they?"

"I never pay no attention to mine," said the Head Barber. "The Missus always remembers it and gives me some fishing, but outside of that my birthday is just one of the 365 days of the year."

"I wonder who sent me this card," said the Manicure Lady. "I know quite a lot of fellows, and most of them is pinched a little these days, so that a card would be about their speed in the way of a birthday gift. The gift ain't a very expensive one, but the sentiment on it is beautiful. It says:

"May each new day of the coming year
Hold more of sunshine than of sorrow,
And each dark shadow disappear
In the rosy dawn of tomorrow."

"That's pretty good salve," said the Head Barber. "It must have been somebody that thought a lot of you, kid. But I should think a queen like you would have got a raft of birthday presents. When my wife was your age she used to get a lot of presents, or at least that's what she tells me now."

"Folks used to be kinder to each other," explained the Manicure Lady. "It's getting now, George, owing to the high cost of living or the Gulf Stream changing its course, or something, that nobody pays no attention to their neighbors excepting to ask them to please move over a little. I can remember, and it ain't long ago, when every birthday of mine meant at least half a dozen presents from folks and that kind.

"The way it is now, I am surprised that I even got this card. I wonder who sent this card to me. First I thought that it might have been my Brother Wilfred, because he leans so much toward poetry and I thought perhaps he was paying the way for a touch. His songs ain't selling the way he thought they were going to, and the money he got for the first royalties went like hot cakes. But Wilfred says he didn't send it, so it must have been some of the boys that come in here to have their nails did.

"Gee, George, it must make them old spinsters sad to have so many birthdays. I am only twenty-six today, and it seems as if it was only a week ago that I had my last birthday. I remember that day very well, because the old goat had been sent to some convention of paint manufacturers and came home feeling superb.

"He brought a gang with side whiskers along with him, and it would have did your heart good to hear the pair of them singing 'She's Only a Bird in a Gilded Cage.' Mother gave the whiskered fellow the gate, and Wilfred put the old goat to bed. I don't like to think my brother would roll nobody, much less his dad, but he seemed kind of boisterous with his change the rest of the week, and paid me five dollars he had borrowed from me. That's how I remember my last birthday so well. Just think, if my birthdays seems to come that close together, how likely they must seem to old girls that nobody never had no fun the after, girls around fifty summers old."

"I guess a lot of them old maids is happier than young girls planning how to get married and young married women planning how to get single again," said the Head Barber. "Maybe they don't care to be obliging vines."

"Maybe not," said the Manicure Lady, "but a sturdy oak is kind of nice to cling to papders."

The Dash Through the Air!—The Fall!—The Rescue!

—And All for the Moving Pictures—

IN THE MIDDLE PICTURE THE LIFESAVERS ARE CARRYING THE PALLID, ALMOST LIFELESS VICTIMS OF THE SEA TO SHORE AND SAFETY.

IT'S A GREAT LIFE IN THE MOVIES.

THIS is how they do it in the moving pictures. The story concerns the thrilling rescue of a drowning man by his sweetheart.

She, a powerful swimmer, goes to his aid. She is endeavoring to keep afloat and support him, but is rapidly becoming exhausted when Aviator Alfred in his hydroaeroplane appears in the nick of time.

Swooping down to the surface of the raging waters it is but the work of a moment for him to drag the struggling pair from the water and place them in the machine. Then, by cool and skilful work, he dashes with them to the shore, where the lifesavers lend a helping hand.

Some film, eh?

Do You Know That—

Two-thirds of the telephones used in the world are in the United States, or a total of 8,362,000. To operate them requires more than 18,000,000 miles of wire.

In Paris there is a corps of professional dinner tasters, whose duty it is to taste and pass judgment upon all food prepared for banquets and similiar occasions of State.

The profession of prompter is more than 2,000 years old.

It is computed that in the two Balkan wars some 360,000 men perished. Of the men, Turkey lost 110,000 and Bulgaria 120,000.

Up-to-the Minute Jokes

It was at a birthday banquet given the other evening by a prominent Paris millionaire banker. The fun was at its height, when a lady cried out:

"My pearl necklace has disappeared!"

Uproar followed, while everyone suggested plans for its recovery.

Then the banker had a brilliant idea.

"We will place a salver in the middle of the room," he said, "lights will be extinguished, and the perpetrator of this silly joke will have an opportunity of restoring the missing necklace."

This was done.

Then the lights were turned on again and there was more consternation. The salver had disappeared!

"Eh, but I'm tired!" exclaimed a tall and thin man, meeting a friend in the street.

"What have you been doing to get so tired?" asked the other.

"Well," exclaimed the thin man, drawing a deep breath, "my married sister is measuring up her house for new carpets. They haven't got a yard measure, and I am exactly six feet high, so to oblige her I've been a-laying down and a-getting up all over her house."

"CASCARETS" IF CONSTIPATED, SICK, HEADACHY, BILIOUS—DIME A BOX

Turn the rascals out—the headache, biliousness, constipation, the sick, sour stomach and foul gases—turn them out tonight with Cascarets.

Don't put in another day of distress. Let Cascarets sweeten and regulate your stomach; remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and that misery-making gas; take the excess bile from your liver and carry off the decomposed waste matter and constipation poison from the bowels. Then you feel great.

A Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning—a 10-cent box from any drug store will keep your head clear, stomach sweet, liver and bowels regular and make you feel lully and cheerful for months. Don't forget the children.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

HE DOESN'T LOVE YOU

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I have been keeping company with a young man (would like those of my age for two years. I had a diamond ring from him for a birthday and sundries on others, as did a quarter and I returned the ring, which he accepted. I also returned several letters and he wrote me A. M.

I am afraid, my dear, that you have lost him. I am very sorry, but believe me in this. Trifling will never bring true hearts.

If he doesn't hunt you up when his relatives and rouse his attentions it will prove that he no longer cares. Love is as precious a possession I am more than grieved that it was ended in a quarrel.

TRY INDIFFERENCE

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am eighteen and in love with a man three years my senior, and we are employed in the same place. When I was first employed there he spoke quite often to me. Now he never shows the slightest attention to me. Kindly let me know how I can gain his love.

ANNA BELL.

I am afraid that in your eagerness for love you have rushed into the arms of him. Don't speak to him; don't look at him. If there be anything for his caring for you, your indifference will awaken his interest quicker than any attempt of to arouse anxiety.

I am so anxious for you to know the joy of loving and being loved that I don't want you to lose it.

She Darkened Her Gray Hair

A Kansas City Lady Darkened Her Gray Hair and Stimulated Its Growth by a Simple Home Process.

She Tells How She Did It.

A well known resident of Kansas City, Mo., who darkened her gray hair by a simple home process, made the following statement: "Any lady or gentleman can darken their gray or faded hair, stimulate its growth and make it soft and glossy with this simple recipe, which they can mix at home. To half pint of water add 1 oz. of bay rum, 1 small box of Barbo Compound and ¼ oz. of glycerine. These ingredients can be purchased at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair every other day until the gray hair is darkened sufficiently, then every two weeks. This mixture relieves scalp troubles and is excellent for dandruff and falling hair. It does not stain the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off. It will make a gray haired person look 10 to 20 years younger." Adv.

The Home Beauty Parlor

By Betty Dean

Mrs. W.—Your wrinkles, especially in middle age are unfortunate and a serious remedy for them demands in treating the skin thoroughly with a clean scientific cream every night and morning. This is made by dissolving 1 teaspoonful of powdered saxolite in ½ pint cold water, into which is then emulsified 1 ounce almond. Massaging with this cream will quickly fill out the wrinkles and the use of lotion, blackheads and pimples, and when used for dandruff and shallow will drive the flesh firm and smooth.

Sally L.—Your dry hair and dandruff are common troubles which are very easily cured. Get from any druggist 1 ounce of bay rum, 1 ounce of castor and 1 ounce of olive oil. Mix the ingredients with ½ pint alcohol and add ½ pint cold water. Rub this invigorating tonic into your scalp twice a week and the hair roots will take on a healthy growth. I know of nothing so prompt and sure in destroying dandruff and its remedy itching scalp. This tonic is wonderfully stimulating to hair growth and should be used in connection with exercises shampoos. I am writing today about exercises also. See answer to Verle.

Verle.—If you will keep your scalp clean and gently by occasionally shampooing with a teaspoonful carbine dissolved in a cup hot water, the hair roots will grow strong and vigorous, resulting in a head of healthy, beautiful hair. This carbine, which is easier to use than a shampoo, of which it is a part, creates a quart of white, thick lather that dissolves all dust and dandruff and removes every trace of oil, leaving the scalp immaculately clean and the hair giving a rich, lustrous, even color and is ever so fluffy and brilliant.

Maxine.—Yes, I know a harmless fat reducer that works rapidly and which many of my fat friends have used to bring them to normal weight. Into 1½ pints hot water put 4 ounces powdered strain whey and add 1 tablespoonful before meals until weight is sufficiently reduced. Then stop the treatment. This particular fruit-meat requires no dieting or violent exercise and restores the figure's symmetrical lines and after your weight is where you want it the flesh will be firm and the skin free from wrinkles.

Rose.—Your wrinkles around chin and neck and general dry skin's telling means that your liver requires a regulator and I would suggest a plain sardine lotion. This is cleansing the blood and give tone and strength to the liver and kidneys and when those organs are in a healthful condition you will be free from bilious attacks, obstinate headaches and the pains to small of back and groins. To prepare this lotion put 1 ounce sardines (skin to you should never use whisky), then add to mashed sardines 1 pint of simple peptonized made at home by dissolving an ounce pepsin powder in a pint of water. This will relieve inflamed skin and tissues, and brighten the eyes itself. Absolutely safe and inexpensive.

Dayse.—The girl who laughed at your "baby-stout" voice has never heard you sing. Most face powders give that artificial look. Besides, they clog the pores and do damage to sensitive skins. Here is a formula which I find has not only wonderful success. Dissolve four ounce of spermaceti in ½ pint water and add 1 tablespoonful glycerine. Apply this lotion to face, neck and arms and rub until dry. It whitens the skin naturally, will clear a long time, securing really a spark of the skin, to which it gives a dainty glow and velvety softness, and is a good preventive for all skin troubles.

Dayse Mayme and Her Folks

WHEN the days grow shorter and the evenings grow longer, the needle, which has been accumulating a lazy mid-season rust, comes merrily forth with a thread of hope in its eye. On this little thread it strings the crumbs of bread thrown for the woman who faithfully reads the women's magazines, and acts according to directions.

Take the scrape left from a silk blouse," read these helpful Hints, "sew them neatly together, bind with a contrasting color of silk left from last season's matinee wrap, and the result is a portiere of intrinsic value."

Or: "Daddy's discarded necktie, the accumulation of the mid-Summer months, may be cut in narrow strips and braided into a rug for the parlor that will rival the skill of the rug makers of the Orient."

Dayse Mayme Appleton is a faithful reader of the Helpful Hints in the women's magazines. All women who spend much time looking wistfully into the dark longing for a way to become useful and great, are faithful readers of the Helpful Hints.

Dayse Mayme read in the Helpful Hints that a revival of the quaint fashion of making patchwork quilts was sweeping the land like a faint breath of pressed lavender from some attic chest. It entranced her. Moreover, it suggested an economical way for achieving distinction.

She decided she would take the pattern of the Cucumber and the Rose. It was so tenderly suggestive of pain and sentiment, and the colors of purple, blue and orange appealed to her.

She bought the brightest of colors in the hope that some of the original shine would survive her many immersions the quilt should be immersed, and then cut and sewed, and cut and sewed.

Two weeks later, Ignatius John Wilson (comic humor has survived forty years of matrimony), issued the following announcement to his friends:

"We have at our home a quilt we will be glad to loan to any friends to have what likewise to be a nightmare designed.

"Any dear friend tearing a hopeless deathbed may rent this quilt at a nominal fee."

TODAYS STOCK MARKET

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor.

Stock markets improved this morning, sentiment being more cheerful and the technical position decidedly better. Trading was quiet in this city. New Haven declined a point during the first hour, Among mines Alaska Gold was strong and active. It sold as high as 23½ in early transactions and then receded to 23¾. At the latter figure it was up 1⅝. Butte & Superior, Calumet & Arizona and Granby were fractionally. During the last half of the forenoon in New York Canadian Pacific was up a point, having receded some and Chino, Pacific, Reading, Steel and Amalgamated were all above yesterday's final prices. American Can was off ¼.

Early New York Trend.

Canadian Pacific advanced sharply at the opening in New York, this being preceded by a substantial gain for that issue in London. American issues were quiet and firm, the selling movement of yesterday having terminated. Coppers were stronger in New York. Amalgamated and Utah sold higher, as did American Smelting and Chino, after the two latter had shaded Wednesday's final figures. The undertone was steady. Reading was active and attracted, considerable talking power as among its People's Gas. Rock Island and American Locomotive also declined and there was a demand for Great Nothern Ore certificates.

Among issues to attain early gains were Steel, Union Pacific, Northern Pacific, B. R. T. and American Can.

Curb prices were irregular.

Underwood on the Tariff.

Chairman Underwood of the House Ways and Means Committee and the Democratic leader in his branch of Congress, has written for publication in a German newspaper in this country and abroad a statement about the new tariff. He says:

"The new tariff law is expected to pass Congress and be signed by President Woodrow Wilson on Saturday, that its provisions may go into effect Monday.

"Dye colors, of which over $50,000,000 are used in the United States, will be on the free list. It is thought that many of these products will hereafter be imported from Germany, instead of being manufactured here.

"The bill reduces the duties on nearly all articles in use by the American people and increased taxation by this and abroad a statement about the new tariff. He says:

"It contains a notification to foreign countries of the desire of the United States to negotiate new treaties. Each treaty is asked to maintain the status quo as to duties now or as they may be the next four months, when new agreements will be entered into.

"There is some criticism by American statesmen of this program on the ground that American exporters are not sufficiently protected against tariff increases by foreign countries.

"Pig iron, steel billets, cement, lumber, sugar, cotton, leather, boots and shoes, print paper, wood pulp, printing presses, gas regulators, linotypes, cotton bagging, boots, shoes, agricultural implements, agricultural implements and tanned skins will hereafter be admitted free of duty, with a number of minor articles.

"Manufactured cotton and woolen goods, chinaware, jewelry, hollow ware, earthenware and glass articles have been greatly reduced in duty and increased importation is expected. It is estimated that $20,000,000 worth of metallic articles more per year will be imported than under the present law."

President Urges a Compromise.

Everything is said to be settled in regard to the provisions of the new tariff excepting a few minor points on which House and Senate conferees are hopelessly deadlocked on that section, and the matter has been taken up by President Wilson, and it is understood he has recommended a compromise which it is believed Congress will agree to.

The provision that there shall be a 5 per cent. discount for goods shipped to this country from abroad in American ships has been amended to avoid conflicts with treaties now existing, and the discount will have no practical value as the United States has treaties with all the countries whose shippers would be affected.

In regard to the cotton futures tax it is said that when the conference report reaches the House that the Clark amendment, upon which the deadlock exists, will be rejected and that the conference will be instructed to take the matter back into conference with a view to substitute. The Senate is expected to quickly agree to the latter and when the conferees have agreed in the House action will approve and the trouble will be over.

Although it has been predicted by Chairman Underwood and others that the bill is likely to reach the President for his signature by Saturday night, some parliamentary hitches think it will not get to the White House for several days after that. They say that under the rules the conference report must go over one day in the House and be printed. There probably would be two days' delay in discussing the first report and sending it back to conference.

There will be further debate in the Senate; so that it looks as if it might be the middle of next week before the bill reaches the White House.

London Copper Quotations.

The London copper warrants market opened lower, spot being off 5s. and futures 3s. 9d.

Producers and sellers say the metal market is supported by a better statistical position than ever, but within a few days the naked price of electrolytic has declined from 17 cents a pound to 16⅝. The latter is now the prevailing quotation. It is questioned if much metal was sold at 17 cents a pound when quoted at that figure. Demand from consumers seem to be at a standstill.

Financial News in Brief.

The Bank of England's minimum discount rate remained unchanged at 4½ per cent. and the proportion of its reserve to liabilities is now 58.30 per cent. against 60.80 per cent. last week, and compares with an advance from 50% to 51⅝ per cent. in the corresponding week last year.

The American Malt Corporation has declared a $2 dividend on preferred stock. The amount is fifty cents less than that of the former dividend payment. The American Malting Co's dividend of $1.25 a share on its preferred compares with $1.35 as the last previous disbursement.

It is said that while the Pennsylvania Railroad wants to dispose of its Cambria Steel Company holdings, no deal has been negotiated looking to that the company as the nucleus of a rival to the United States Steel Corporation.

The Commercial National Bank of Boston has declared the regular quarterly dividend of 2 per cent., payable October 1 to stock of record September 24.

'Shot Gun Brigade' Guards Shore Homes

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—As a result of the theft of $10,000 worth of jewels from the residence of Mrs. Henry Rogers Winthrops in the wealthy and exclusive North Shore colony on Long Island, a "shot gun brigade" of private watchmen was formed today to patrol the district and fire upon any prowlers.

Auto News

By J. C. KERRISON.

There is a possibility that the Vanderbilt Cup races will take place in the State of New Jersey. The races will be held, if the plans go through, over a circuit of 30 miles and a half to be run on in the close neighborhood of Trenton. It rests with the State authorities to determine whether the proper protection can be secured for the races. This is an important point because without such protection it would be impossible to run the races with safety to the on-looker or the drivers.

After the coming election those who are interested in the Vanderbilt Cup race will know better what the chances are of getting the militia protection. It is understood that there is no idea of holding any races before the Autumn of 1914.

The names of the men who are behind the scheme have not been made known, but, it is said, that some of them are prominent in the political and social life of the State.

As a part of a far-reaching policy of sales expansion, the Ford Motor Company will establish a selling and service branch in Buenos Ayres, the first branch in South America.

The new branch will be in charge of E. H. Harrington, who has been the Ford export manager, with offices at No. 18 Broadway, New York city.

The Ford Motor Company's American business of the Ford company is handled by a large number of dealers. These are in a position to give the public the service the Ford company will be able to furnish when its branch is in operation.

The Ford company has already a pretty well covered by the direct branches of the Ford company. In addition to the foreign branches of the Ford Motor Co. and Manchester, Eng., the company has branches in Copenhagen, Denmark; Germany: Hamilton, Ont.; London, Eng.; London, Ont.; Melbourne, Aus.; Montreal; Paris, Saskatoon, Toronto, Vancouver and Winnipeg.

In addition there are, of course, the thousands of dealers scattered throughout the world.

Why Is Thaw Made a Hero in New Hampshire--As He Was in Canada?

The Answer Is Simple. People Do Not Like White Slavers, Vile Debauchers of the Stanford White Type. And They Do Not Like the Friends of Stanford White That Are Now Hounding Thaw.

Copyright, 1913, by Star Company.

A newspaper filled with sympathy for the late Stanford White asks the following question:

"Is Thaw a hero in New Hampshire as he was in Canada because he is notorious, or because he is rich, or because there is genuine popular sympathy for him, or is his popularity due to the fact that he and his money are making a joke of law and justice?"

Here is the answer:

Thaw is made a hero in New Hampshire, he is applauded by good citizens, not so much because of his own qualities, Heaven knows, as BECAUSE THE PEOPLE WANT TO SEE JUSTICE DONE TO HIM AT LAST.

The citizens of the country know that he has been kept in the insane asylum—although he is not insane—through the efforts of the friends of Stanford White, who was about the vilest product of degradation that could possibly be conceived.

The people know that Thaw was declared insane by a jury for the simple reason that the jury would not condemn him for having killed such a creature as Stanford White. And the newspaper that we quote probably knows that also.

The people know that Thaw, now at least, is not insane. They know that so far from being helped by his millions—or rather by the millions of his mother—the money actually hinders him. If he were an ordinary citizen, without wealth, and if Stanford White, the vile white slaver, had fewer powerful friends, THAW WOULD HAVE BEEN FREE LONG AGO.

The people like fair play in New Hampshire, in New York and in every State in the Union.

That is why, in every State, if the matter were left to a public vote, Thaw would be set free.

This newspaper considers the case AS IT STANDS TODAY. Thaw was declared insane by a jury that would not vote to execute him for having killed Stanford White.

The law says that a man who commits a crime and is declared insane shall be kept locked up, unless his sanity returns. As soon as he is sane he is to be set free.

Only the friends of Stanford White, a few newspapers that sympathize with White and some specialists, especially paid, declare that Thaw is insane.

He is at least as sane as 75 per cent. of the population. And he is not only sane, but has shown remarkable intelligence in his determined efforts to obtain freedom in his dealing with tricky lawyers and in his answers to judicial questions.

Inasmuch as Thaw is, or was, detained by New York State, as an insane man, and inasmuch as his conduct during his incarceration and since he fled from the asylum would clearly indicate that he is sane, justice demands that he be set free—as the law provides.

Justice does NOT demand that he be returned to life imprisonment TO OBLIGE THE FRIENDS, JOURNALISTIC AND OTHERWISE, OF THE DEGRADED BRUTE WHOM HE KILLED.

Fortunately, Thaw is as good as in the hands of a federal judge; he is not at the mercy of any court especially chosen to send him back to the insane asylum. He is not at the mercy of the distinguished legal gentlemen who make a special point of hounding him—for excellent pay, no doubt.

He will have his day in court, and will probably not be sent back to life imprisonment in an insane asylum for having killed Stanford White, whose death certainly saved from shame, degradation and horror many helpless girls.

No civilized human being would plead the unwritten law, or put the right of an individual taking justice into his own hands above the law.

And any sane man who commits a murder for whatever reason should be punished for murder. Yet, if ever there was a killing that was justified, it was the killing of Stanford White. AND HIS MOST INTIMATE FRIENDS KNOW THAT THAT IS SO.

They know that his pastime was the pursuit and the destruction of unfortunate women. They know that he spent his money and his time in the committing of crimes compared with which murder committed in anger is as nothing.

It is not a good, healthy or wise thing to have a man who has committed murder, such as Thaw, lionized, applauded and made much of. But the fault is with the degenerate associates and admirers of Stanford White who viciously pursue Thaw and create public sympathy for him.

And the fault is with the machinery of justice that in one or two instances at least has seemed afraid to deal justly with Thaw.

Far better let the man go in a proper and orderly manner, taking with him the sympathy and the thanks of those who best understood the character and the crimes of Stanford White.

Lock him up again in Matteawan and you will not settle the question or dispose of it.

The people in New Hampshire, as in Canada, make a hero of Thaw because they do not like Stanford White, and because they do not like the idea that the associate friends and defenders of that vile degenerate have influence enough to deprive a man of his liberty, when the law says that being sane he should be set free.

One Woman's Story

By VIRGINIA TERHUNE VAN DE WATER

Chapter XXXI.

MARY FLETCHER'S little son was born one morning in early April. When the young mother awoke from the ether-sleep and heard the baby's cry, she smiled wanly, then a frightened look crossed her face. The village nurse, bending over her, motioned to the doctor to step nearer the bed. She feared that the patient's mind was not quite clear, else why should she look alarmed now that her trouble was over and her child safe and well?

"What is the matter, Mrs. Fletcher?" the doctor asked gently.

"Is my baby a girl?" queried Mary anxiously.

"Why, no," replied the doctor, with a smile, "you have a splendid boy. Why did you think it was a girl?"

"Because it cried so piteously," she whispered. "I do not want my child to be a girl."

Perhaps the physician, seeing daily—as even a country physician must—some of the tragedies of life, understood the feeling that prompted the young mother's question, for he spoke kindly and reassuringly.

"Well, well," he soothed, "you wanted a boy and you have one. As soon as you have seen him, he shall be laid here by you and then you must try to sleep."

When at last Mary fell asleep it was with her treasure close beside her and her head turned toward the tiny mite as if listening for the faintest nothing from the flannels in which it was swathed. She was glad that the doctor and nurse did not allow her to see anyone just now. She wanted to be still and try to appreciate that hereafter her life need not be solitary and lonely, for she had her child who would be with her until he was a grown man—such a man as her father had been. She would pray daily that he might grow like him. With the thought came the determination to call him by her father's name. Surely, even Bert could not object to granting her this favor just now. But she would say nothing about it yet, for she was tired.

So weak was the young mother that Mrs. Danforth and Bert were not allowed to go into her room until towards the close of the day on which the baby was born. Then the two—father and grandmother—came into the quiet chamber. In his soul Bert resented the fact that he was not given precedence above his mother-in-law at this time, yet he did not mention this grievance, for the doctor had warned him that Mary must not be agitated. He looked curiously at his small son as the nurse displayed him proudly.

"Lord!" he exclaimed, "but he's little!"

Then he kissed his wife and, as she did not speak, stood about awkwardly for a moment and tiptoed from the room, his creaking boots refusing to be silenced. Mrs. Danforth kissed the baby, then kissed Mary, and, with her handkerchief to her eyes, crept away. But her tears were those of gratitude.

The baby was a week old before Mary felt strong enough to talk to her husband of the matter of the baby's name. Strange to say, Bert himself had not asked what his wife wished to call her son. Her mother had inquired "what name the darling was to have," and Mary replied tremulously: "There is only one name I want to call him by, mother, and that is the dearest name in the world to you, I know. I must not talk about it until I am a little stronger." But on the seventh day after the child's birth, Herbert Fletcher came home from business and, learning from his mother-in-law that Mary was feeling bright and comfortable, went straight to her room.

"Well," he asked as he entered, "and how is Fletcher Junior tonight?"

Mary smiled faintly. "He is doing nicely, Bert," she answered. "Do you know," she went on after a pause, "that you and I have never said a word about what we are going to call him? Yet I know we have both thought of it."

"Of course we have," laughed Bert good-naturedly. "To my way of thinking there is only one name to call your first boy by."

Mary drew a sigh of relief. "Oh, I am so glad that you think so too!" she said. She was so certain that her hopes and expectations were to, be realized that she mistook her husband's smile of satisfaction for a glow of gratification at her pleasure. She held out her hand to him impulsively.

"Oh, Bert," she exclaimed, "I was afraid that you would not want him called by that name—the dearest in the world to me! Thank you, dear!"

Quick tears sprang to her eyes and she closed her lids to hide them. When she lifted them her husband was looking at her in perplexity.

"Why, Mamie," he said, "I didn't suppose you cared so much for my name as that! And I don't see why you were afraid I'd object to having the kid named for me. Every man ought to have his oldest son named for him."

The woman paled suddenly and she caught her breath with painful surprise.

"Oh!" she gasped. "I thought you meant you would name the boy after—after—father!"

It was evident that this idea had never occurred to Fletcher, for his jaw dropped and he flushed crimson.

"Well, I'll be durned!" he ejaculated. Noting his wife's pallor, he checked the words that rose to his lips. But he set his jaws stubbornly.

"His name's Herbert Fletcher," he said solemnly. "That's settled. He ought to be a 'Junior,' and he's going to be. You can call him 'Bertie' for short."

Mary did not tell him that while she disliked the name of "Bert" she disliked still more heartily that cognomen with an "ie" tacked on it. When she uttered no protest her husband patted her hand.

"Never mind," he laughed. "You can call the next one for your father if you want to. There'll be lots more, I hope, to pick and choose names for."

Again the wife closed her eyes. She felt that, if her life depended upon it, she could not reply.

THE RECKONING DAY

By LILIAN LAUFERTY

WE are going the way of mirth—'tis a joyful way,
Come and join us, sons of earth, on the primrose way.
Come and join us—hand in hand we will go our way
Till we meet in No Man's Land on the Reckoning Day.
But the time to pay is so far away,
So we laugh and we sing—'til the Reckoning Day.

Of course, to give the Devil his due is what we are intending,
And it may mean me and it may mean you before the story's ending.
But you have to pay on the Reckoning Day, and the debt seems beyond the spending.

We are going the way of joy—'tis a merry way,
Come good comrades, man and boy, on the primrose way.
Come and join us—light of heart we will go on our way.
Comrades, come—we'll never part 'til the Reckoning Day,
Sure the time to pay will be due some day,
But we carol and shout 'til the Reckoning Day.

Of course, to pay our debt to life will mean our sad undoing—
And there may be tears and fears and strife and bitter pain and rueing.
But that is the very chance you take when Dame Pleasure you go

A Test of Morality; a New Great Principle

By REV. CHARLES F. AKED, D. D.

IT IS impossible to overestimate the significance of the Diggs-Caminetti trials in San Francisco.

For all practical purposes these two may now be studied as one.

The social position of the two men first called attention to the charges brought against them. But this would only have given notoriety, not importance. The ill-judged action of their friends in trying to stave off an appearance before judge and jury added to the notoriety. The intervention of the Attorney-General, the fierce daring of Mr. McNab, the United States District Attorney, taking his official life in his hands and challenging the government of the United States to deal out even-handed justice even to the son of one of its trusted officers; the painful blunder of the President of the United States; his verbal rebuke of McNab and his actual compliance with McNab's demand; the debates in Congress that followed—all this gave to what at first looked like a mere elopement a publicity not limited by the boundaries of this country.

A Law on Trial

Yet these things are not of the essence of the matter. The importance of the case lies deeper. Perhaps the man or woman who made no secret of the absorbing interest which this case possessed could not have explained in so many words the nature of that interest. But all the same, each person was conscious of a something vaster than the fate of two victims young men. It was not they who were on trial. A new law of the land we live in was on trial. And behind that, a new great principle of law, a new great principle of ordered life and government, had to stand its trial before a jury composed of all the thoughtful, earnest persons among a population of ninety millions of freemen.

The Mann act, miserably misnamed "The White Slave Traffic act," had its baptism of fire. And the public learned with amazement that its scope goes far out beyond their dreams of what law and the administration of law can do.

Designed to afford the federal government power to deal with criminals who fatten upon the flesh and blood of women, it was —and again by deliberate purpose —made to include victims conduct in which no suggestion of monetary gain or of "white slavery" inheres, but which might tend eventually to swell the ranks of women devoted to a shameful life.

A Broader Principle

The world—our world, the world of the United States—has for some time been prepared to take arms against the brutalized creature who panders to vice and by force or fraud holds women in prostitution, making his market out of them.

But the Diggs-Caminetti cases told all this great world that law had now armed itself against conduct which for long ages both men and women had condoned, and stood ready to brand as a party to this iniquity men who only thought to tread, as men had done before them, the primrose path of dalliance—at the cost of a woman's shame.

The news was really news! It was new news. It was startling news. And our world watched and waited and carefully read and as carefully thought; and is still making up its mind as to whether the law, justified by Congress and the Supreme Court of the United States, shall be justified at the bar of public opinion. Judge Van Fleet, in his charge, so full, so strong, so clear, repeated and emphasized his own conviction:

In my judgment the law is a good one and in the interests of public morals and decency.

And again:

The Mann act is as much for the protection of virtuous women as it is to break up the vile traffic in women.

Public Surprised

And it is this which the public learned with such surprise. The public believed that the act was "to break up the vile traffic in women." The friends of Diggs and Caminetti may protest as they will, but the judge's view had been previously affirmed by the Supreme Court. And the court yet more supreme, the court of public opinion, the court of the national conscience, will confirm the judgment of these tribunals. Prostitution is not a necessity. It is not, as generations have, almost fondly, called it, a "necessary evil." The sacrifice of women to the passions of men, all but hallowed by the beliefs and practices of thousands of years, has to end. A new era has dawned, and in this new age conduct which once was thought of as personal and individual is seen to be a crime against society. And society, for its own protection, will treat it as a crime.

The Real Wrong

It is this conviction, defined or unexpressed, which demanded a verdict of "Guilty" against both Diggs and Caminetti. The feeling deepest in the souls of the earnest men and women throughout the United States who followed the trials with such eager interest was not one of resentment on behalf of Marsha Warrington and Lola Norris. The wrong, it saw—or, at least, felt—was not the sin against these girls, but the attack upon the whole framework of he social order. These two girls are entitled to little sympathy, except as one sympathizers on general grounds with every man or woman who goes wrong, as one is sorry for the two men in the case. They are bad girls; treacherous; wicked. And if a law could be passed which would administer these girls would suffer severely at their hands. They will suffer. They are suffering. And they ought to suffer.

Their parents suffer, and one wonders whether their sufferings will be a warning to other parents in this country. What sort of parental oversight had there been? How did it come about that these girls could so easily deceive their fathers and mothers?

There are mothers and fathers in every city in the land who ought to learn the lesson. And if they will not learn it from the Diggs-Caminetti trials, they may yet have to learn it in bitter, heart-breaking trials of their own.

THE CIRCUS

By WILLIAM F. KIRK

IT comes to the village at daybreak,
And all is a hullabaloo,
With tent poles all bare and canvas to spare,
With camels and elephants, too.
The roustabouts swear as they hustle,
The outfit is moved from the train,
And naught but excitement and bustle
From now until nightfall will reign.

The farmers are up with the robins,
All swearing "By heck!" and "By hen!"
Their wives help to hitch up the Dobbins
And drive into town with the men.
The villagers join with the farmers
In best Sunday raiment arrayed,
And Romeos stroll with their charmers,
Awaiting the gilded parade.

To one who is weary of cities
And sated with pomp and display,
The thrill of real joy he knew when a boy
Returns with this marvelous day.
And the wealth of the haughty and scorning,
Like so much cheap junk he would trade
To start once again in Life's morning
With peanuts and red lemonade.
